U. S. BOMBS HIT NAZI FACTORIES 6TH DAY IN ROW

Five Production Plants at Regensburg and Stuttgart Take Heavy Pounding.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 25—Great forces of American heavy bombers carried the unprecedented aerial offensive thundering through its sixth day today against plane bases deep within Germany and aircraft production plants at Regensburg, Stuttgart, and other cities.

The heavy daylight assault followed the RAF's two-way scourge of German plane production last night with a 1,000-plane raid from Britain on Schweinfurt and an Italian based attack on Steyr, Austria.

Both Schweinfurt and Steyr were already burning from the Thursday two-way attack by American heavy bombers based in Britain and Italy.

Today's American four-engined battlewagons were protected by fighters as they dumped their destruction on the aircraft works at Regensburg and the ball bearing works at Stuttgart.

Returning crewmen reported good results.

All targets of the daylight assault were deep inside Germany.

Indicating today's assaults may have been joined by Italy-based bombers for the third two-way punch within 24 hours, the Berlin radio said American formations had entered the reich from the south. It added violent aerial battles accompanied the daylight attacks.

The RAF'S night-riding bombers were guided to both targets by the flaming wreckage left only a few hours before by American daylight raiders. The British bombs added still further damage to Schweinfurt's sprawling ball bearing plants and to the German aircraft factory at Steyr, Austria.

156 Nazis Shot Down

U. S. headquarters announced the powerful American airfleet which flew from the west and south yesterday shot down 156 Nazi planes. Eighth airforce bombers downed 83 Nazi planes during their attacks on Schweinfurt and fighter plane factories at Gotha while their accompanying fighters accounted for 37 others in terrific air battles. Bombers of the 15th airforce attacking Steyr bagged 36 Nazi fighters.

The Britain-based American forces lost 49 bombers and 10 fighters. The Italy-based formations lost 16 Fortresses and three fighters with two other fighters missing, the RAF's night losses were 35 bombers.

In Tuesday's two-way punch, the first of a series of simultaneous assaults from west and south, the combined American forces shot down 133 German fighters.

The British announcement said last night's heavy assault on Schweinfurt actually was carried out in two separate raids.

"Schweinfurt, the German center of ball bearing production was the main objective and was at-

PALACE COUP OUSTS RAMIREZ

Argentine President Resigns in Sudden Buenos Aires Political Upheaval.

By The Associated Press

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 25—Vice-President Gen. Edelmiro J. Farrell took over the reins of Argentina's nine-months-old military government today after Gen. Pedro Ramirez had vacated the presidency in a sudden political upheaval regarded here as another palace coup.

Full significance of the upheaval was not immediately apparent in Montevideo, as strict censorship was clamped down in Buenos Aires before any details could be transmitted abroad.

There seemed no question, however, the situation was the direct result of smouldering opposition within Ramirez' cabinet since he decided to break relations with the axis Jan. 26.

The effect Farrell's assumption of the presidency will have on Argentine foreign relations is unknown but he is known to be an intimate friend of Col. Juan Domingo Peron, secretary of labor and welfare, frequently mentioned as the mainspring of the reactionary "colonels' group."

Forced Earlier Resignation

This organization was credited only last week with forcing the resignation of Foreign Minister Alberto Gilbert after he had been reported in favor of a declaration of war against Germany.

U. S. WARSHIPS STRUCK CLOSE IN TRUK BLOW

Battlewagons Moved in Close Enough To Destroy Japanese Cruiser.

By ELMONT WAITE
AP War Correspondent

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 25—First eyewitness accounts of the bold two-day attack Feb. 16-17 on Japan's naval base of Truk disclosed that United States battleships moved in close enough to blast an enemy cruiser to the ocean bottom.

Naval officers who participated in the thunderbolt stroke, which obviously surprised and stunned the Japanese, disclosed that:

Japanese air opposition was considerably weaker than had been expected.

Anti-aircraft came largely from cruisers, rather than from Japan's vaunted ground defenses at that Caroline islands bastion.

Although Truk was reputed to be an extensive self-sustaining naval base, only one floating dry-dock was observed.

Japanese warships, instead of challenging the American task force, tried to flee north.

Thinks Japs Were Ferry Pilots

"The general impression I had was that those Japs were ferry pilots taking planes through and got caught with their pants down," said Lt. Cmdr. Harry W. Harrison, 33, of Miami Beach, Fla., fighter squadron commander.

"They probably never expected to have a fight at Truk."

A total of 201 Japanese planes were reported shot down in the attack by hundreds of carrier planes.

The enemy cruiser one of 19 to 26 ships sunk at Truk, fled with three other warships through North Pass of the reef encircling the 40-mile-wide lagoon.

The plane of Lt. Cmdr. Donald B. Ingerslew, 28, of Trenton, Mo., got in the first blow.

"The bomb hit—wham," said Lt. Cmdr. William G. Privette, of Chapel Hill, N. C., who with Ingerslew and Harrison have just returned to Pearl Harbor.

Pieces flew and the cruiser's pack ack guns quit blinkin' right then. Everything was quiet and peaceful. The polish off was that we had battlewagons (battleships) coming. Our fighters spotted some salvos for them and wham, wham, wham—there were only pieces floating around."

50 Seaplanes Wiped Out

Commander Privette, torpedo squadron commander aboard a carrier, estimated 50 enemy seaplanes caught on a ramp were wiped out.

Commander Ingerslew reported "the sky was like a Christmas tree," thus converted by the busting anti-aircraft shells sent up by Japanese cruisers. He said American dive bombers also attacked an enemy convoy 90 miles west of Truk, sinking a large transport and hitting several smaller ships.

Radio silence still prevented reports on accomplishments of a big task force whose planes raided two bases in the Marianas islands.

JAPS' PACIFIC FORCES FADING

Naval Forces Carry Out New Forays Against Enemy Bases, Shipping.

By The Associated Press

American naval forces, prowling the Pacific without challenge, were disclosed today to have carried out new forays to sustain the brilliant record of assaults on Japanese island bases and shipping.

The famed "Little Beaver" squadron swept enemy shipping lanes far north of the Solomons Tuesday in what was termed the most daring surface raid ever attempted in south Pacific waters.

A Japanese destroyer or minelayer and two cargo ships were sunk along with four barges loaded with nearly 1,000 Nipponese, 73 of whom were picked up. Kavieng, New Ireland, came in for its second naval shelling and the big guns were turned on Duke of York island of Rabaul to complete the no-loss mission.

"(We are tightening the blockade of the enemy's Bismarck bases," General Douglas MacArthur said in announcing the naval action, "and we now dominate sea lanes to the north due to effective neutralization of the enemy's air bases in the admiralty, New Ireland and New Britain groups."

Another Atoll Hit

In between sea-borne attacks on Truk and the Marianas, carrier planes showered 30 tons of bombs on three islands of an unspecified Marshalls toll Sunday.

Japan today acknowledged the loss of 4,500 troops and 2,000 civilians at Kwajalein and Roi islands in American capture of Kwajalein atoll nearly three weeks ago. U. S. Navy figures placed the enemy dead at 8,122 against 286 Americans killed. Preliminary reports indicate the same lop-sided ratio prevailed in the just-completed occupation of Eniwetok 280 miles west of Kwajalein.

The Tokyo radio previously told the Japanese of heavy damage suffered in the U. S. carrier attack on Truk Feb. 16-17. What it failed to mention, however, was that American battleships sailed close enough to the vaunted naval bastion to sink a Japanese cruiser trying to flee.

Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland, who accompanied the "Little Beaver" squadron on its successful patrol-raid beyond the Solomons, said the destroyers combed the once-busy shipping lanes from Truk and Palau and "found them empty." The Japanese ships sunk were caught off New Ireland. Not a single enemy plane appeared until the naval force was enroute back to base.

Rabaul Hit Again

South Pacific fliers again attacked the Japanese key position of Rabaul, throwing down 164 tons of explosives on two airdromes and hitting eight ships. For the third successive day, there was no aerial interception.

Allied bombers and attack planes smashed at enemy installations along the coasts of Bougainville and northeast New Guinea. On the ground, American troops reached a point about 12 miles northwest of Saidor, New Guinea, 45 miles south of the Japanese shipping base at Madang.

Air attacks pounded the Japanese in Burma. U. S. heavy bombers blasted airfields at Akyab target of a present British land drive. RAF and Indian fliers attacked enemy positions in the Arakan, Mayu, Kaladan, Magwe and Upper Chindwin areas.

British troops have driven the Japanese from positions south of Ngakyedauk pass through the Mayu hills in the Arakan area while other allied forces are attacking the enemy at the northeastern end of the pass, New Delhi announced.

ONLY 14 VOTE TO BACK ACTION OF ROOSEVELT

72 Cast Ballots To Override as Senate Follows House Pattern.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—With its galleries overflowing with curious spectators, a determined senate today climaxed the congressional revolt against President Roosevelt's tax bill veto by making the measure a law with votes to spare.

The overriding vote was announced by Vice President Wallace, presiding, as 72 to 14—10 more than the necessary two-thirds majority. At that instant the bill, which congressional sources estimate will yield about $2,313,000,000 in additional revenue annually, became law.

Majority Leader Barkley, principal figure in the drama as a result of his sharp denunciation of the President's veto message in the senate on Wednesday, stuck by his announced intention to vote to override Mr. Roosevelt.

Scant Doubt of Outcome

The veto message sparked a congressional revolt which from the very start left scant doubt as to the final outcome of the tax bill, which the President called inadequate. The house yesterday set aside the veto by a vote of 299 to 95.

Spectators—most of them women—packed every seat in the gallery and stood two-deep against the back wall.

Barkley arrived 11 minutes after the session opened. The gallery crowds elbowed for vantage points and leaned forward to watch the Kentuckian take his desk.

The spectators, chattering like a theater crowd at an opening, turned into hushed silence as the reading clerk began droning through the words of the veto message. He read in a loud, steady monotone.

Although the vote has been the subject of almost constant conversation and much bitter oratory, it was the senate first formal notice that the President had turned down the tax bill.

months ago, stood with other house members at the rear of the senate chamber.

Senator Hill (D-Ala), majority whip, questioned the presence of a quorum as the session opened and the reading clerk began tolling the names of the members.

More than 60 senators were at their desk before he finished and others filed into the chamber during the reading of the message.

As the reading clerk finished there were cries of "vote", "vote" from the floor.

Vice President Wallace, however, recognized Senator Pepper (D-Fla).

His voice trembling at times with emotion, Pepper boldly proclaimed his unwavering devotion to "liberalism" and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

With full knowledge, he said, that he stood with a small minority against overriding the veto, Pepper solemnly declared:

"I have nothing to gain except the inestimable satisfaction of expressing my own conviction."

Pepper's Objection

If the house simply were overriding the veto of a tax bill passed by congress, Pepper asserted, he would not be so moved. He was afraid, he said, the defeat of the President on the tax bill might alter "the permanent course and character of our party."

Taking the floor after Pepper finished, Senator Lucas (D-Ill), who usually supports administration policy, said he disagreed with the Florida senator on the issue involved in the crumbling veto.

"I'm voting on the basis of tax legislation, and tax legislation alone," Lucas said.

The roll call followed.

As soon as the vote was announced—making the first tax veto in the history of congress—

President Seeks Rest on Trip To Shake Off Effects of Flu

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
AP Correspondent

WITH THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY, Feb. 25 — President Roosevelt, slow to shake off effects of a recent attack of influenza, is getting a measure of rest and relaxation away from politically stormy Washington.

He is isolated personally from representatives of the press.

But it would be inaccurate to say he is isolated also from repercussions of his veto of the second wartime tax bill. Special facilities permit him almost instant communication with the White House.

The Chief Executive himself had disclosed he was out of town when he urged Senate Majority Leader Barkley not to resign in protest against the veto. No official explanation of his absence has been forthcoming.

Lost 10 Pounds

Mr. Roosevelt, however, contracted influenza shortly after Christmas and the case was severe enough to drop his weight 10 pounds. His personal physician, Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, had been urging him to get out of the capital, to take it easy for a time and regain his strength.

McIntire, however, has seen no cause for alarm over the condition of his number one patient.

When revolt broke in congress over the tax veto and Barkley announced he was quitting as senate leader, White House reporters immediately followed the President out of town. They had no access to his retreat and were advised by members of his staff that no inquiries would be accepted or answered and that any news or statements would be cleared through the White House in Washington.

On only a few occasions since Pearl Harbor have reporters been invited to travel with the President. This is the first instance in which, because of the importance of new developments, they have followed the presidential party without invitation.

In Washington, Stephen Early, presidential secretary, reported that any news from Mr. Roosevelt [illegible] be given out here (at the White House), because while he is away he is "strictly off the record."

The President's health is good, Early replied to questions, but he just needs a rest.

Early Makes Statement

The subject was opened at Early's morning press conference by questions concerning a story written by John H. Crider, White House correspondent of the New York Times, which appeared in today's Times. This story was datelined "with President Roosevelt" and reported the President had made himself incommunicado with respect to correspondents and that it seemed "reasonable" to suppose that one reason he was away from Washington was "the state of his health."

Early was questioned about the President's health. He said that the dateline on Crider's story was incorrect because the correspondents were not "with" the President, but actually miles apart from him. He then took up the statement that the President

Light Attacks on Beachhead

Allies Stop Two Light Blows; Germans Mass 10 Divisions.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, Feb. 25—German forces ringing the Anzio beachhead, now swollen to 10 divisions, pecked at American-British lines yesterday in two fruitless attacks southwest of Carroceto as the Fifth army steadily improved its positions, it was announced today.

The enemy likewise in light force assaulted French positions on Monte Abate a mile and a half east of Terelle on the Cassino front, but artillery fire broke up the thrust, and on the lower Garigliano sector German probing attempts were blocked.

Despite a seven-inch snowfall, allied troops improved their positions on Monte Castellone in the mountains west of the village of Cairo, midway between Cassino and Terelle.

The new German division added to the nine which have been containing the Anzio beachhead for some days was said to have been brought from northern Italy.

The two beachhead attacks were launched by only a company of

VITEBSK FREE OF GERMANS

Nazis Withdraw Toward Old Polish Border After Evacuating Stronghold.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 25—German troops have evacuated the great White Russian stronghold of Vitebsk and are falling back toward the old Polish frontier 70 miles to the west, Berlin announced today.

The announcement followed closely a Moscow communique declaring Russian troops had taken Rogachev, German bastion 150 miles south of Vitebsk, and the rail junction of DNO, 60 miles east of Pskov, German-held gateway to the Baltics. Moscow did not immediately announce fall of Vitebsk, however.

The German Transocean News Agency, in a Berlin broadcast, said Vitebsk, important junction of four trunk railways and under siege by Red army troops since last November, was evacuated only after bitter fighting. An earlier Berlin broadcast had acknowledged "evacuation" of Rogachev.

Predicts Bitter Fighting

"Fighting became particularly bitter at the two focal points of Rogachev and Vitebsk," Transocean said. "It was quite evident that the Soviet command was aiming at breakthroughs here and was sparing no sacrifices in order to achieve them.

"Nevertheless German troops succeeded in coping with these strong attacks by elastic adaptation. In the course of these tactics, the two towns were evacuated.

"In the Vitebsk area Soviet troops succeeded in penetrating German lines southwest of the town, but this penetration was sealed."

Premier Stalin announced earlier that the Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky's army, north of the Pripet Marshes, had captured Rogachev and had advanced 15 miles on a 30-mile-wide front. One Soviet formation alone killed

NEW OXYGEN TENT GIVEN TO HOSPITAL

Woman's Board Buys $600 Item of Equipment.

Announcement of the purchase of a new oxygen tent for the City hospital was made by the mission chairman at a luncheon meeting of the woman's board of the hospital yesterday at the home of Mrs. John Courtright of Greenwood street, with Mrs. Ray King and Mrs. Carl Leffler as assistant hostesses.

The new purchase consists of a Continental Iceless Oxygen tent and a truck for the oxygen tanks, the cost amounting to around $600. It is electrically operated and can be used either for air or oxygen therapy.

The tent is completely modernized and cool, clear air is forced into the canopy four times a minute. It can be used for cardiac ailments, hay fever, asthma, tuberculosis, pneumonia and many other ailments.

The board members were informed of the economy of operation of the tent and it is guaranteed to give many years of service. The purchase was made necessary as a result of last year's emergency call at the hospital and the extreme need for an oxygen tent in these times of crowded hospitals.

The next meeting of the hospital board will be on March 8 at the home of Mrs. Bernard Ney on East Church street.

New Crime Era Threatened By Delinquents, Police Are Told

Wayward Juveniles Setting Stage for Wave of Gangsterism, Frazier Reams Says at Annual Marion Banquet.

By BOB BYRD

Another gangster era is on the way in this country. It is not going to develop among the men now in our fighting forces. Rather, the criminals of tomorrow are the nation's delinquents, beginning their careers on the streets today as juveniles. National state and local governments and the citizenry as a whole should start laying plans now to cope with the coming problem.

This, briefly, is the message Frazier Reams, Toledo attorney and candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, told the Marion County Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police at its fourth annual banquet for members and associate members last night at Hotel Harding. More than 150 persons, most of them Marion businessmen who are associate members, were guests of the lodge, and Billy Bryant, of showboat fame, was the toastmaster.

Although Mr. Reams, who attracted nationwide attention as a gang-buster in the last gangster era, emphasized that the big time criminals of the past weren't former service men and that the men now at the fighting fronts will not be the criminals of tomorrow, he said the war is providing the incubation period for the "young punks" who will be the criminal headaches of law enforcement agencies of tomorrow. They are absorbing the wartime atmosphere but they aren't expressing it in military service, he said. Increasing juvenile delinquency "the surest sign of all," and other signals of the approaching crime wave are apparent to anyone who will study the situation, he declared.

"Tighten Moral Standards"

Once again he referred to servicemen, this time in connection with his recommendation that the citizenry of the nation tighten up its moral standards and insist on law enforcement instead of letting the shameful conditions of the last gangster era develop again. "So far as the men in service are concerned, most of those men, especially those at the fighting fronts, are having a deep religious experience," he declared. "Some indication of this is given in such expressions as 'there are no atheists in foxholes.' When those men come back, they aren't going to be a bloodthirsty gang of

Mrs. Bolton Explains Vote To Uphold Veto

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Rep. Francis P. Bolton, Ohio's first congresswoman and one of three Republican representatives who voted to sustain President Roosevelt's tax bill veto which was assailed by Majority Leader Alben Barkley, said "no one felt that this tax bill was a good bill."

The gray-haired Clevelander declared, "the thing to remember is that we are at war. No one knows as well as the President that we are a long way from winning, that immense sums of money are going to be required, and that as much as possible must be paid now."

Mrs. Bolton added she was "shocked" at the method employed by the President in an attempt to gain a new bill, "but I have accepted and overlooked his manner of doing it and I cannot believe it was as serious an attack on the structure of government as other members of congress felt it to be."

Marine Corporal Wins Citation at Guadalcanal

Purpose of Corporal Smolka's messages, sent under heavy fire from hostile machine guns and rifles, was to secure a boat to take an officer aboard the destroyer to direct its fire on the enemy's shore positions, according to the citation.

Native of Graceton, Pa., 32-year-old Corporal Smolka is the son of Mrs. Virginia Smolka of Niles. He enlisted with the Marines Sept. 28, 1940, at Cleveland.

Marion city and county have contributed generously in the life saving Blood Donor Service, a wartime project of the American Red Cross. During the six visits of the mobile unit to Marion, residents have contributed 2,360 pints of blood. Plans are now under way for another visit of the unit here March 6, 7 and 8.

As on former visits here headquarters will be at Epworth Methodist church. A goal of at least one pint of blood for every man in service has been set for 1944. More than four million donations were made through the Red Cross and this year the goal is more than five million pints.

The use of plasma, processed from blood, is given a major share of the credit for reduction of the mortality rate to half that of World War I.

The dramatic story of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service, through which thousands of soldiers and sailors literally have been brought back from the dead, began in February, 1941, when the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy asked the Red Cross to procure 15,000 pints of blood. By the end of 1941, a total of 50,000 pints had been collected.

From the moment of Pearl Harbor, the need for plasma and serum albumin grew. The Blood Donor Service expanded to keep pace with that growth. In 1942, 1,250,000 pints of blood were collected for the Army and Navy. Last year, that figure was more than trebled.

From one center in New York which collected 757 pints of blood during February, 1941, the Blood Donor Service has grown to a nationwide project collecting approximately 100,000 pints each week. The addition of new Blood Donor Centers early this year brings to 35 the number of Centers in operation. Mobile units visit more than 800 nearby communities under the auspices of local Red Cross chapter.

Red Cross officials, in commenting on the blood donor program, said, "many of us have not been able to donate our blood to Red Cross blood banks, for despite the fact there are processing stations in thirty-five cities and 60 mobile units working across the country, technical reasons will not permit blood donor centers in every town.

"We can, however, give our dollars to the Red Cross War Fund, knowing that many of those dollars will be used in supplying the life-giving blood plasma to the boys from this city who are wounded. If we can't give blood, let's give dollars to bring those boys back home!"

F. F. McKinney is chairman of the blood donor unit of the Marion County chapter of the Red Cross.

Text of Sen. Barkley's Letter

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Text of Senator Alben W. Barkley's letter to President Roosevelt yesterday follows:

My Dear Mr. President:

When I reached my home late yesterday afternoon, after the events of the day, Steve Early was waiting with your gracious letter which he delivered to me in person.

First, let me thank you for your prompt disavowal of any intention to reflect upon my own or the integrity of other members of the congress. I accept your statement in this regard at full value and I am happy to feel that it was sincere. If, when I discussed the veto with you on last Monday, I had known that it would be couched in the language which it contained, I would then have protested against it and would have advised you that I would be compelled to reply. However, our argument over the veto related to the measure itself, and when I learned that you had definitely decided to veto the measure notwithstanding any arguments which I had been able to put forward, I felt that there was no further occasion for discussion.

Recalls Woodrow Wilson

I am sure I need not say to you that I have, during these eventful years, worked with you with an inspiration, a devotion and a personal affection which has not been approached by any other men, unless it be Woodrow Wilson, at whose feet I sat as a young member of congress and learned from him many of the great lessons of liberalism in government and society which I have struggled to advance.

I realize that sometimes language in a written document carries with it connotations not intended by the writer. Sometimes the expressions on one's countenance or the intonations in one's voice indicate a meaning not always carried in the written word. But I feel that upon reflection you will agree that some of the language contained in your veto message was abundantly susceptible of the interpretation which I put upon it in my address to the senate and which many others put upon it throughout the country.

I am happy to feel, as you have indicated, that you had no such purpose in mind.

No Break in Faith

I realize that in these terrific times you are burdened with a responsibility no American president has ever borne. Throughout this perilous period my heart has gone out to you in sympathetic understanding, not only of your great responsibility, but your high purpose in meeting that responsibility. I want you to know that that faith in you endures in me today and will continue to endure because I have recognized in you a spokesman of the people, whose chief desire was to advance their welfare and their happiness.

We have on some occasions disagreed as to policies and we have sometimes disagreed as to methods. Frequently I have submerged my own views in pursuance of your more intimate knowledge and your greater responsibility. Sometimes you have yielded your views to mine in all these circumstances we have maintained a mutual respect which I value deeply appreciated.

But it seems to me there is something greater and more fundamental than any personal acquiescence as between you and me over matters of public policy and fundamental principles. In this crisis of our nation's history we must all seek some common ground upon which we can meet and have confidence in one another. That applies to all the branches of our government. If we cannot trust one another in this tragic period of the history of our nation and of the world, how can the people trust us?

Felt Resignation Compelled

I want you to know that you have my utmost confidence and affection and the personal and official relations which have been to me a source of infinite pride, I hope may be continued.

In view of all that happened, I felt compelled to tender my resignation as majority leader at the Democratic conference. The conference unanimously accepted it and then unanimously reelected me as majority leader. In spite of my own personal preference to yield this responsibility to some other, in view of their earnest and unanimous action, and in view of your own generous and manly statement to me, I have accepted again the majority leadership of the senate.

I fervently trust that this incident may be instrumental in bringing the executive and legislative departments closer together in the fullest cooperation to the end that we may win this terrible war at the earliest possible moment, bring all of our armed forces back to their homes and loved ones, and be instrumental in bringing to a downhearted and distressed world peace at last.

With great respect, I am
Gratefully and sincerely yours,
ALBEN W. BARKLEY.

Doctor in Hospital After Spy Conviction

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Feb 25 — Dr. Fred W. Thomas was confined to Wayne county jail today pending outcome of an appeal from his conviction by a federal court jury on a charge of conspiracy to conduct espionage.

His attorney, Walter M. Nelson, has three days in which to file a motion for new trial.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty late Thursday, with a recommendation for leniency. Judge Edward J. Moinet has not fixed the date of sentence.

The government had not asked the death penalty. Maximum imprisonment term allowable under the wartime espionage act would be 30 years.

LIFE ASSURANCE FIGHTS INFLATION

Policyholders' savings important contribution to War Effort and Post-War Reconstruction

One of the many distinctive services performed by Life Assurance in these urgent times is the mobilization of the people's savings against the insidious but none the less devastating enemy — inflation. Thus millions of men and women, advised by a worthy and highly-trained group of their fellow-countrymen who "sell" Life Assurance, withhold their savings from the luxury market and set them aside to secure protection and well-being for themselves and their loved ones in the unknown days to come.

In the past year alone, the million policyholders of the Sun Life of Canada have set aside $112 millions of their savings in the form of Life Assurance premiums.

During the war years there has been a marked increase in the basic service rendered by Life Assurance—personal and family protection in the time of greatest need. The Sun Life of Canada, since September 1939, has paid out 365 million dollars to policyholders and beneficiaries, a really significant contribution to the stability of national family life in time of emergency.

County Receives Congratulations On 4th War Loan

Marion county today had won the congratulations of the Ohio chairman of the war finance committee for its good showing in the Fourth War Loan.

A telegram from the chairman, Phil J. Trounstine, to Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the Marion County War Finance committee, brought the following message:

"Congratulations to you on your county's splendid record in the Fourth War Loan. Official Federal Reserve figures show your county over the top in both the E and total quotas. Please convey to your workers and residents of your county our sincere appreciation for their all-out participation in this important phase of our nation's war effort."

Acknowledging the tribute to the county, Mr. Schoenlaub today declared he and the county committee had received "marvelous cooperation" from everyone connected with the Fourth War Loan. Marion county has gone over the top in every war loan drive and has bought its share of bonds between drives, he declared. "That's because everyone has helped. Every time I've asked anyone to help, they've helped."

Drive Chairman Robert E. White also praised the job done by Fourth War Loan workers and the response of the public at large, declaring that bond purchases have shown that Marion county's first concern is to back up the war effort in every possible way.

Blood plasma is credited with saving the lives of a large percentage of our wounded. The Armed Forces have asked Marion citizens for 525 pints of their blood for this purpose. Telephone 2431 and make a date to donate March 6, 7 and 8.

HAGERT'S ATTORNEYS FILE FOR NEW TRIAL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 25—Describing Henry Hagert, 18, convicted slayer of 12-year-old twin boys, as "the victim of a mass attack set into motion by the insanity department of Cleveland City hospital, Attorneys Edward E. Lurie and Roy C. Green today requested a new trial for their client in a brief filed with the court of appeals.

A jury found Hagert guilty of shooting Charles and James Collins in a field in suburban Bay Village last Aug. 12, two days after he was released from City hospital, where he had been confined for mental observation at his mother's request.

He was sentenced to die March 27 but on Feb. 1 was granted an indefinite stay to permit filing of briefs.

"At a staff meeting governed solely by the recommendation of a young doctor of approximately three years' experience, the defendant was released," the brief stated.

Four doctors "coldly testified that the defendant was sane and with complete disregard for the facts that they themselves had found the boy to be psychiatric and abnormal, gave a vengeance-hungry jury all that they needed to convict the defendant," the brief continued.

Hagert's attorneys contend the court erred by admitting a sanity verdict at a preliminary hearing, by admitting evidence of prior crimes, by admitting photographs of the twins after they were found dead, and by admitting evidence of a written confession made out of court.

U. S. WAR CASUALTIES NOW TOTAL 157,865

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—American casualties in the war now total 157,865, of which 36,005 are dead.

Undersecretary of War Patterson reported yesterday U. S. Army casualties from Dec. 7, 1941 to Feb. 7, 1944 totaled 116,128, divided as follows: killed 19,498; wounded 45,345; missing 26,339; prisoners of war 26,745.

Casualties in the sea services—Navy, Marines and Coast Guard—based on reports up to yesterday have amounted to 39,737, as follows: killed 16,506; wounded 9,322; missing 9,491; prisoners 4,418.

Patterson said of the 45,543 soldiers wounded, 24,289 have returned to duty.

Of the total prisoners, he said, 1,664 have been officially reported by the enemy to have died in prison camps, mostly in Japanese occupied areas. He commented "it is known that the actual number must, in sad reality, be much larger."

By Associated Press Food Editor

"Yes, I know soy beans are supposed to be awfully good for people. But have you tried them? I don't like the way they taste."

That's an excerpt from a conversation many of us have heard often in the past few years, during which time the high nutritional quantities of soy products have been brought to our attention with considerable emphasis. But only recently have we been able to say, "Here's a way to get the nutritional values of soy without the pain of eating something you don't like."

Charlotte Adams

We've learned one important secret about soy bean products which is that they should be used sparingly. In the beginning, when we first began to appreciate what a treasure we had nutritionally in this common and inexpensive vegetable, we carried the whole thing too far. We made whole dishes out of soy beans alone. They were not tasty. Now we have soy grits and soy flour and they can be used palatably and still be awfully good for us. Nobody minds being "done good" to if the process is pleasant. In fact we're all for good health under there circumstances.

High fat soy flour (it contains about 22 per cent fat) is used as an ingredient, making up from 5 to 12 per cent of a recipe. In yeast baked goods the percentage is lower. In quick breads it can be stepped up.

Because soy flour is so high in fat content the best method of incorporating it into recipe for cake or quick bread is to cream it together with the shortening—and then cut this mixture into the dry ingredients. Soy flour should never be sifted. It is best either cut in, as described above, or beaten into the liquid of a recipe. The ability of soy flour to absorb a large amount of moisture makes baked products which include it last longer than ordinary cakes and breads. The same characteristic makes it important to use more seasoning in soy flour foods. Many seasonings are easily soluble in water or milk. Soy flour drinks these seasonings up, as well as the liquids.

Soya products are very filling, and therefore should never be included in more than one dish in a meal. Keep the rest of the meal light, if there's a soya dish in it. Soy muffins or rolls for instance, will give body to a very light meal, and send everybody from the table satisfied.

Above (and illustrated) you will find a delicious entree, built around a soy recipe. There's very little soy flour, as you will see, but it packs a tremendous protein, mineral and vitamin value. The curry sauce adds that extra, stepped-up flavor which soy foods can stand so well.

A pint of your blood donated to the Armed Forces March 6, 7 and 8 will probably be used to save the life of a wounded Yank on one of the fighting fronts. Call 2431 for an appointment and help in this way to Back the Attack.

The People Will Judge

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S apparent motive for advertising his recruitment of congressional independence is to make a campaign issue of it.

An overwhelming majority of congressmen will join the issue on this basis, according to present indication. The argument will be thrown squarely into the presidential election this year.

The people will have a chance to choose between Mr. Roosevelt's doctrine of executive domination, with legislative confirmation, and the classic theory of a balance of power between the executive and administrative branches.

Insofar as the trend of popular thought already has asserted itself in election to congress of many candidates pledged to be independent of executive domination—and insofar as these legislators have been gadflies on Mr. Roosevelt's sensitive official skin—the omen for his victory in this issue is not good.

It is not too soon to begin thinking about the consequences of his reelection as a fourth term candidate if he were returned to office with a new congress which lacked confidence in his leadership.

The President's personal popularity even among voters who have been critical of his policies has been a peculiar phenomenon of politics. But it remains to be seen whether, in a showdown with congress, he could avoid the political consequences which befell Woodrow Wilson, who also tried to demean congress by going over it to the people.

This is why the political potentialities of this thing that has happened are so tremendous. It is not merely an incident between Mr. Roosevelt and congress. It is a head-on clash of divergent philosophies of government.

Similar clashes have occurred before and will occur again, if Americans are lucky enough to reach the right decision. It is inevitable under the concept of balanced power that the integral parts of the power shall strive periodically for accessions of authority.

A strong chief executive is tempted to infringe on the judiciary; Mr. Roosevelt did that when he tried to pack the supreme court with justices favorable to his point of view. He is tempted to dictate the composition of congress; Mr. Roosevelt did that when he tried to purge the Democratic majority in congress of legislators unfavorable to his point of view. He is tempted to rule by edict; Mr. Roosevelt has been doing that continuously since March, 1933, and now has reached the point where he is unwilling to have his edicts questioned.

The issue is clear. The people will judge. If they judge correctly, they can look forward in the years to come to the privilege of restoring the balance of power again, assuming there will be more strong presidents tempted to increase the authority of their position. Unless a century and a half of experience with the trials and tribulations of the American credo of popular government through representation has been wasted, the people will judge correctly.

The Revenue Issue

THERE is no clear case for or against a given estimate of new revenue, such as the estimate of 10½ billion dollars made in the case of the proposed tax bill submitted by the administration and rejected by congress in favor of a bill to produce an estimate 2 1/3 billion. These are matters of opinion, not fact. Expert testimony can be lined up on both sides.

The administration's opinion that at least 10½ billion should be raised, like Wendell Willkie's opinion that the total should be 16 billion, is based nominally on fear of inflation plus desire to pay as much of the cost of the war currently as possible. Congressional opinion favoring a smaller total, as expressed in the revenue bill, is based on denial that the people need to be taxed to the limit to avert inflation and on the contention that taxpayers already are doing about as much as they can be asked to do without running into the law of diminishing returns.

These differences of opinion are honest. They are not unmixed with a certain amount of election year politics, but there is an honest difference of opinion, too. Mr. Roosevelt thought it was good politics to abuse congress for not carrying out his wishes, and congress thought it was better politics to fight back. The voters will make the decision on who carried that point.

So They Say—

You've got to teach youngsters the difference between right and wrong, but you shouldn't try to poke it down their throats. Let them ask questions and then give them the answers. —Henry Ford.

There is only a hair's breadth between final victory and defeat.—Jap Premier Hideki Tojo.

Our treatment is too lenient in comparison to that given our prisoners by other nations.—Kimachi Yamamoto, Jap vice minister for occupied Asia.

If it were not for enormous sacrifices of our Russian ally the odds would be roughly four or five to one against the United Nations in the European theater.—Col. Theodore de Cue Palmer, Jr., army specialized training chief.

Women's Vote Rated High

Likely To Be Deciding 1944 Factor, Election Experts Say.

THE Republican and Democratic parties are out to tap large numbers of women in 1944 who never before have voted in a national election.

The consensus is that women will swing the pendulum this year. Democrats and Republicans alike feel that a great many of them will be women who never have marked an "X" on a ballot.

Many men's votes will be lost through battle casualties, the difficulties of polling soldier voters, and through dislocation of war workers failing to register in new communities.

Republicans are counting particularly on housewives. Democrats look for large numbers of voters in the vast ranks of women war workers and the young women just reaching voting age.

In many ways, women of both parties are thinking alike. Leaders in both parties express hope for a sound plan to insure peace. They want to see servicemen properly taken care of when they return, with jobs and security and a start on the road back. They want jobs for women who have to, or want to, continue working. They want to see peoples of stricken nations given an opportunity to pull themselves up by their own bootstraps.

MRS. CHARLES W. TILLETT of Charlotte, N. C., assistant chairman of the Democratic national committee and director of its women's division, says there will be thousands of newcomers to the polls.

"They will be aroused from their lethargy by casualty lists from many faraway battlefields, by incidents like the murder of Doolittle's raiders and the treatment of American prisoners by the Japanese," she says.

The party, however, expects most of its votes to come from these groups:

"Women workers—thousands of them—who are helping to win the war on the production front. These women will realize that it is not enough to work—they must think, too.

"Many more thousands of young women, girls just past 21, expressing themselves in their world—the world they are going to have to rebuild.

"Other thousands, who it is hoped, will be mailing their ballots in from all around the globe—army and navy nurses and Red Cross workers, WACSs, WAVES, SPARS and marines. They will believe, and we share their conviction, that if democracy is worth fighting for, it is worth voting for."

Mrs. Tillett declares her mail indicates widespread faith among women in the Democratic party's policies.

She says Democratic women will want to see the following expressed in their party's platform:

"1. Sincerity of purpose in regard to post-war problems.

"2. Post-war jobs and social security for themselves and their families.

"3. Fair treatment for working women who wish to retain their jobs, with equal consideration with men as to wages and union representation.

"4. A housing program sponsored by the federal government in cases where private industry is not interested and can not handle the financing."

"Our big problem now," Mrs. Tillett concludes, "is to get millions of voters . . . now living away from their home towns and working in the huge, concentrated defense areas . . . registered so they can vote in 1944. We always have had active and informed leaders in Democratic women's organizations. Today there are more than 100,000 of them, already at work, doorstep by doorstep, precinct by precinct, county by county, getting Democratic names on the registration book."

THE Republican party hopes to win a large number of its estimate of 10,000,000 women who never have voted before.

It hopes to claim a majority of an estimated 60 per cent of votes which it expects to be cast by women.

Miss Marion Martin of Bangor, Me., assistant chairman of the Republican national committee and director of its women's division, says the Republican vote is the housewives' vote.

"I believe," she says "that the outstanding contribution which women made in the 1942 state and local Republican victories is a forerunner of 1944.

"We're aiming at good government. We're not a pressure or a lobbyist group. Generally speaking, Republican women want a balanced platform whose basic philosophy is a capitalistic economy."

Specifically, Miss Martin says, they want this platform to include:

"1. A post-war foreign policy of full cooperation to insure peace.

"2. Legislation for rehabilitation of soldiers . . . and assurance against need for street-corner pencil-selling.

"3. Assurance of post-war employment of women, against the threat that many will be jobless when the nation returns to an adequate labor supply.

"4. A proper housing program providing financing for individuals who want to own their own homes, and slum clearance projects under private enterprise."

Republican women, she says, are interested in rehabilitation of devastated countries on a "sound basis of helping them to help themselves and not on a Santa Claus-like dole system."

"We want to see a practical standard of living, achieved through hard work and thrift," she says. "All we should do is to help at the beginning in supplying seeds, machinery and temporary food supplies until the first harvest."

Asked what kind of candidate Republican women seemed to favor, Miss Martin replied:

"More than anything else, women want a man who is uncompromising, who is independent, and has the courage of his convictions. They also want him to have strong men around him.

"The war will not be impeded if there is a chance of leadership. War's leadership is not and should not be political."

Growing Ship - Consciousness

Post-War Merchant Marine Policy Needed.

GLOBAL war has made the United States more ship-conscious than at any time since its founding, says Frank J. Taylor, president of the American Merchant Marine institute, in Nation's Business.

When the war ends, this country probably will have about 5,000 merchant ships; five times the size of the pre-Pearl Harbor merchant fleet. What to do with this enormous fleet will be one of the major post-war problems.

After World war I the United States muffed its opportunity, Mr. Taylor declares. This time, however, government and private industry seem to agree on the need of a sound national ship policy.

All parties concerned want the ships used to the best national advantage. New routes and services should be undertaken. Cargoes over courses formerly covered by Axis nations should be carried under the United States flag. The public should be kept informed of the importance of a strong American merchant marine.

Mr. Taylor points out that movements of our armies and those of our allies depend entirely on cargo ships. The ships, themselves, may be regarded as war supplies. But unlike most war supplies, they can contribute to economic security when the war is over.

"THE United States," asserts the president of Merchant Marine institute, "must have foreign markets to absorb its surplus products. Granted that normally we export only about 10 per cent of all the movable goods we produce, that 10 per cent can easily mean the difference between depression and prosperity . . . Despite all the things that grow and can be produced in this country, the United States must import many commodities which do not exist here or which can only be produced at extremely high costs at the present time. Rationing and shortages have demonstrated to millions that ships are needed to provide us with rubber, with coffee, sugar, tin, tea, bananas, spices and coca .... Without an American merchant marine our foreign trade would depend completely on the service and treatment ships of other countries care to give it."

Mr. Taylor explains that the cost of supporting a large merchant marine would not be inordinately high. Other maritime nations expect to support their merchant fleets. Many services would pay for themselves directly. Seventy per cent of the foreign trade fleet, he says, operated without government aid.

"AMERICAN-FLAG steamship companies engaged in foreign trade prefer to get along whenever possible without government aid," he further explains. "While a differential in no way guarantees profits for an operator, it does oblige him to abide by many conditions placed on him by the government. In a measure, the government comes into business. It audits his accounts and if there are any profits, beyond 10 per cent, it takes a share.... When operating differentials were suspended for the duration, only 12 companies operating 123 ships of 892,000 gross tons were receiving them. The annual total is about $13,000,000. While this sum is small in comparison to what some other nations contributed to the support of their merchant marine, it could have been smaller if more Americans had patronized their own ships. In 1938, American ships carried about 25 per cent of this nation's foreign trade."

Mr. Taylor concludes that whatever the cost might be it would be small compared to the tremendous total needed for building a wartime merchant fleet under emergency conditions. In World war I, three billion dollars were spent on 2,300 vessels, most of which were allowed to rust in idleness. In this war an expenditure of about 10 billion for the same purpose is expected.

Coyotes Thrive on War

By The Associated Press

SANTA FE, N. M.—If the coyote howling bothers New Mexico ranchers this year more than usual, they can blame it on the war.

State Game Warden Elliott Barker says coyotes are increasing because war jobs and the armed services have taken most of the trappers. The state employs trappers but "they are no more than a drop in the bucket compared with the need," Barker commented.

Current market price for coyote pelts is $8 each.

Fighting Men Practice Thrift

UNITED States fighting men are the "savingest" warriors ever known, thanks to a deliberate program conducted by the army and navy to encourage thrift.

Soldiers and sailors are putting at least $1,500,000,000 of their annual pay—well over 10 per cent of the total military payroll at the current size of the armed forces—into established channels of thrift, according to information compiled by Life Insurance Companies of America, an organization supported by life insurance companies.

Biggest single medium is life insurance. Men in the armed forces are putting aside more than $65,000,000 out of their pay every month as premiums on national service life insurance. There are 9,185,724 policies on men in the army with premiums aggregating $18,158,534 a month, and 2,556,350 policies on navy military personnel, including coast guard and marines, on which the premiums are just under $17,000,000 a month. Total face value of insurance involved is over $100,000,000,000. National service life insurance is term insurance, convertible within five years into permanent insurance.

Two out of every five in the army and navy are buying War Bonds by pay allotment. There are 4,100,000 of these allotments for both services, involving an investment of approximately $43,000,000 a month on a cost basis. Added to this is an unknown volume of cash purchases. An indication of the size of this latter category is shown by the fact that in the Third War Loan drive, army men bought $34,000,000 War Bonds for cash, and millions of dollars in cash purchases were invested by men in the navy.

Both services also have a plan called Voluntary Class E Allotments-of-Pay, different from the Family Allowance Plan to which the government contributes. Class E allotments can be made for payment of private life insurance and for bank deposits as well as to dependents. The army's is by far the larger of the two. Latest figures show the army has more than 2,100,000 Class E allotments involving monthly pay deductions of more than $111,000,000.

The army also has a system of soldiers' deposits, established originally by congressional statute in 1874. It is open only to enlisted men and 4 per cent interest is paid. Reflecting a drive to increase these deposits, soldiers are saving at the rate of $8,500,000 a month, based on the January figure. The navy has a similar deposit system.

In addition, the army has a system of personal transfers, known as PTA, by which officers and enlisted men can send money home. From last May to the middle of January this year $97,850,000 was sent home via PTA.

Thrift in both services is partly the result of encouragement. The army and navy have specialized staffs to carry out thrift campaigns, and the men are indoctrinated in the desirability of saving, from the day they are inducted into the service, even before they get their guns, down through the various stages of training and out in the theaters of operation.

The entire program is based on the conviction of military authorities that a sound savings program is a major morale factor. Thrift is sold on the basis of intelligent self interest, with particular emphasis on demobilization and the desirability of having a "nest egg." Results have been unparalleled. The lesson of thrift learned in uniform should have an important and beneficial effect on the nation after victory.

We Not Only Cannot Write Novels But Probably Could Qualify as an "Ace" Columnist

By DAMON RUNYON

JIMMY STARR, movie columnist for The Angelus Herald and Express, has written a murder mystery entitled "The Corpse Came C. O. D.," a title which is certainly intriguing enough, and in his brief introduction he says:

"This book—the one which all newspapermen promise themselves to write but never do—is dedicated to the ace columnists and writers whose names appear on this page. If it were not for them—my friends and contemporaries—this book would never have been written."

The introduction is surrounded by reproductions of the newspaper heads of various columns, including my own, which flatters me no little. No one ever before rated me as an "ace" columnist, though many have classed me as a deuce.

But there I am with all those big shots Winchell, Lippmann, Pegler and Louella Parsons and it makes me feel mighty proud, so I only regret that book reviewing ethics bearing upon reviews of mystery stories forbid revelations of plot, etc., etc., lest they dull the appetite of the avid reader for this type of literary fare, but I can tell you that "The Corpse Came C. O. D." is as exciting as the title.

STARR is a short chap with a perpetual [illegible] and a kisser somewhat less handsome than that of Tyrone Power or Clark Gable. He is 35 years old and has been doing a movie column for The Herald and Express for years. He got his first job as a movie columnist on the Los Angeles Record by losing another assistant publicity man under Harry Brand with Norma Talmadge Co., pulling a murder hoax that got him in bad but perhaps set the tenor of his literary thought.

He has been in Hollywood since 1919, working for Mack Sennett as an extra and as office boy at the old Metro studio. He used to write jokes for various magazines. As you can see, he has considerate knowledge of the background against which he tells how "The Corpse Came C. O. D." and he brings in the glamor spots of Hollywood and Beverly Hills.

Now that I have told you of Jimmy Starr I would like to discuss his introduction about newspapermen always promising themselves to write a novel but never getting around to doing the work. That used to be quite true. I never met a newspaperman in the old days who did not have a novel in his system that never leaked out in printed words, except in a few cases. But I reckon Jimmy was on his lines before he took stock of the new era that finds newspapermen writing books like mad.

THEY practically dominate the literary field just now. Louella Parsons, Nick Kenny, Howard Handleman, Ernie Pyle, Lowell Bennett, Jack Beldon, Dick Tregaskis and scores of other working newspapermen and women have books on display in the book stores, many of them still fresh and selling rapidly. I think I can safely say that never before in literary history have there been so many books by authors of one profession as there are today.

It is true that many of them are by war correspondents and that some of them represent material collected from newspapers, but quite a number were written for book publication only, and I am sure it is as difficult to write facts from memory and after the excitement has cooled to some extent as it is to sit down and weave a novel from the imagination.

I must say that both feats command my admiration. I do not think I could carry a story line beyond four or five thousand words. I never tried a novel to be sure, because the mere contemplation of the enormity of the task has always appalled me. I therefore doff my kady to all authors who can keep a plot rolling to three or four hundred pages.

Congress in for Dinner

By Truman Twill

This is not a hint, but when Jack and Heintz Inc. of Cleveland has congress in for dinner Leap Year day it would be nice to tag along.

Feb. 29 makes a nice day for it. In case guests get any funny ideas about putting their feet under the table every Leap Year day, they won't be another one till 1948, and that [illegible] comes on Sunday.

Naturally, there are certain complications about having congress in for dinner. It never has been done before. Emily Post will have to write a new chapter in her behavior book: What To Do When Congress Comes To Dinner. One thing you wouldn't do is serve pork, unless you wanted to start something.

Someone will have to stand at the door and speak to the guests. That would be Mr. Jack and Mr. Heintz, the hosts, no doubt, and they better remember how touchy congressmen are about being addressed as The Distinguished Senator from Alabama and The Honorable Gentleman From Maine. Now that Tom Connally of Texas is the only senator left with an artist's eye it isn't as easy to tell senators from representatives as it used to be.

Then there will be the problem of seating the guests. All the gentlemen, honorable and otherwise, will want to sit next to Mrs. Luce, the honorable gentlewoman from Conn. They will have to put Mrs. Luce at the end to keep the boys from hurting one another. Probably the best seating arrangement would be to have a Democrat, then a Republican and so on to keep the conversation lively, but imagine looking for your place card in a crowd of half a thousand. And there are too many Democrats to come [illegible] even anyway.

This is the first time congress ever was invited out for a meal all at one time. Usually when someone from back home comes to Washington, they eat with a congressman, but they always stick him with the check. Jack and Heintz had better make it clear this is all on them, or they will have a lot of vacant chairs and candied sweet potatoes left over.

It's going to get complicated when the guests get ready to go home, too. There will be the old bottleneck at the door on the way out when the free feeders struggle up to the hosts to make their acknowledgements for a perfectly swell time, the food was wonderful, it was delightful to be here and you and the missus drop in when ever you-all happen to be passing through Yazoo City, Miss., suh, or Wolf Run, Minn., as the case may be.

It makes no difference to us one way or the other because we will be munching a dry peanut butter sandwich at the kitchen table at the time, but if we were Jack and Heintz Inc., and even if we weren't incorporated, we'd tell our guests that while they had to listen to our speech because they ate our food we'd be darned if we'd listen to 500 of theirs, so skip it. Jack and Heintz are going to be too tired for any fol-de-rol when all those dishes to wash when congress goes home.

PROSECUTOR TO ASK DEATH FOR COLLETT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Feb. 25—Prosecutor John B. Hill said today he would demand the death penalty as James W. Collett goes on trial Monday for the Thanksgiving eve slaying of the wealthy Elmer McCoy family.

Hill would not say definitely whether Collett would be tried on one or all counts in the indictment—the shooting of Elmer McCoy, 54; his wife Forrest, 60, and their daughter, Mildred, 20.

It seemed unlikely submission of evidence would begin before Wednesday or Thursday because of difficulty expected in selecting a jury.

The slim grey-haired, 60-year-old Clinton county farmer and hog breeder will be defended by James B. Linton of Columbus, noted criminal attorney, and Allen Smith and Charles Kirk of Wilmington. They have already filed an alibi notice indicating the defense will be based on the premise that Collett was not in Fayette county at the time of the murders.

Prosecutor Hill's assistants will be Charles S. Hire, of Washington C. H. and Simon L. Leis of Cincinnati. In 12 years as assistant prosecutor of Hamilton county, Leis handled 35 first degree murder cases.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

WE'LL KEEP THIS HANDY

Editor of The Star: About a month ago I read an article in your paper regarding the trouble experienced with starlings in the trees at the courthouse. I intended to write the following suggestion in a letter before this time but put it off due to so many other matters requiring attention, then I forgot it. It seems like a crime to cut those beautiful trees down to eliminate the pest and before giving up trying various other remedies, I would suggest shooting the old fashioned July 4th Roman Candles into the trees at night, one or two or more times, for I understand it not only will scare them away but will keep them away. I never tried it but it does seem like those bright balls going into the bare limbs before the leaves come out would have some effect on the birds roosting in the branches.

Possibly the city authorities already have eliminated the pest and will not need the above late advice. I hope that you will be able to spare the trees.

Editor's Note — The courthouse birds have disappeared, at least for the time being, but there's always the likelihood they may return, so Mr. Mason's suggestion will be placed on file for possible future use.

"MISFORTUNE'S SOLDIERS"

Editor of The Star: Why not have Governor Bricker call the Ohio legislature together and use the 74 million dollars in the state treasury and give all citizens of Ohio 60 years and older $50 per month pension?

These men and women have built this nation from hand tools into our machine age of plenty for all of us.

They have fought through 26 years of major panics, 1893, 1907, 1914, 1921, 1929, into 1937. The last one was the greatest man-made panic in our history.

God never made a money panic.

Our soldiers of misfortune should be permitted to have a home free from all taxes or judgments the remaining few years they life. If church property is free from taxes the soldiers of economic misfortune should pay no taxes on their homes.

They should have free medical care, the same as other disabled soldiers.

Patriotism should begin here and take care of our own people, the mothers and fathers of the state of Ohio.

Several million dollars have gone out of Marion county to bomb and kill people several thousand miles from the United States of America. Do we call it charity or patriotism when we send millions of dollars to feed and clothe them?

We should put our own financial house in order before any other nation is given consideration. Do you remember how the British papers called us "Uncle Shylock" and did not pay their war debts and never will?

RECORD HOG SALES BELIEVED PAST PEAK

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—Peak of the record-breaking movement of hogs from the country to midwestern stockyards has passed, traders in the livestock market are convinced, and from now until autumn the trend of shipments probably will be downward.

As proof of this conviction, the Chicago hog marketing committee has decided to end its permission-to-market plan, beginning next Monday. The plan, in operation since Jan. 24, was established to prevent farmers from swamping packers with more hogs than could be handled.

Recently, the number of hogs held over unsold at the end of the trading session has been either very small or non-existent. During the marketing peak there were days when holdovers ran well above 10,000 head.

Prices of some hogs have moved above the government support level of $13.75 a hundred pounds for swine weighing 200 to 330 pounds. This support level also was the highest price paid from Nov. 9, 1943, to Feb. 14, 1944. A few hogs scaling 210 to 250 pounds Wednesday brought $14.

The advance of prices above the $13.75 level this week was the major factor in the decision to end the permission-to-market plan, livestock observers stated.

Retired Teacher At Galion, 84, Awaits Her 21st Birthday

Special to The Star

GALION, Feb. 25—While Miss Louise John of Galion is believed to have something of a national record in public school service, she also has a record in Galion of having the least number of birthdays of any other person her age. Next Tuesday, Feb. 29, she will observe her twenty-first birthday, although she will be 84 years old on that date. Her birthdays come every four years.

Miss John was one of the retiring members of the Galion board of education at the close of 1943, having completed eight years as a member of the board, six of them as vice president. These, added to 54 years of teaching, 37 of which were in the Galion High school where she taught languages and literature, make a total of 62 years in school work. This it is believed is a national record.

In 1935 she retired as a teacher. She came to Galion in 1896. Prior to that time she served as a teacher for 13 years at Delphos, her birth place, and four years at Tippecanoe City. She was granted her life high school teaching certificate in 1892.

As a member of the Galion board of education, her many years of experience as a teacher aided her in dealing with school problems.

In recent years, Miss John served on the Galion nursery school advisory council, was an honorary member of Senior Circle, Child Conservation league, a member of the Progress Literary club, and the Galion Business and Professional Women's club. For 20 years she served as secretary of the Galion Library board, retiring in 1940, and also was chairman of the Galion Public Health league from the time it was organized in 1930 until 1940 when it merged with the county league.

OHIO WOMAN FOUND KILLED IN HOME

By The Associated Press

LEBANON, O., Feb. 25—Warren county deputies hunted today for a suspect seen near a farm home at Franklin where Miss Myrtle Rogers, 44, was found raped, strangled and beaten to death.

Miss Rogers' body was discovered by her six-year-old nephew, Leal Balon, when he returned from school yesterday with his mother, Mrs. Pauline Balon. They lived with the slain woman, Mrs. Balon's sister.

Sheriff William Hufford quoted Mrs. Balon, an employe of the Warren county draft board, as saying the boy went upstairs to greet his aunt and then she heard him scream when he came upon the body.

Miss Rogers had been beaten with a two-by-four scantling, Sheriff Hufford said, and roped to the bed. The rope and a dustinc cap were knotted around her neck. The sheriff said she apparently had been attacked while washing windows.

Coroner H. M. Williams gave a verdict of murder and said the woman had been raped. He said a suspect seen near the home during the afternoon was being sought.

Mrs. Balon said she saw her sister alive at noon and other relatives and friends reported the dead woman had no known enemies.

RAMIREZ

apparently was accomplished without violence, although there were reports "military forces had been very active."

Ramirez' stepping down from the presidency was attributed officially to ill health.

The first Associated Press dispatch to come out of Buenos Aires was limited to a war department release of a statement signed by Ramirez. It said:

Exhausted by the intense tasks of government which makes it necessary for me to take a rest, on this date I delegate the office which I occupy to Vice President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell."

It was presumed the entire Ramirez cabinet went out of office with him.

Resigned To "Get" Ramirez

Farrell was reported to have resigned his post as war minister as a means of obtaining a free hand to push Ramirez out.

A former amateur boxing champion and a bluff, tough cavalry officer, Farrell's abilities as a statesman are virtually unknown.

It was believed here, the fact he has been serving as vice president might have influenced the army group opposing Ramirez to put him into the president's chair on the belief he would be regarded as a logical successor to Ramirez and that the question of withdrawing recognition of the government would not arise in other American capitals.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN LONERGAN CASE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—The sudden north-of-the-border trips of Wayne Lonergan's counsel and the district attorney's psychiatrist turned attention today to the possible part international developments may play in Lonergan's fight against charges he killed his heiress wife.

Motives behind defense Attorney Edward Broderick's departure for Canada on the eve of the trial's scheduled beginning were overshadowed by sensations created when he failed to appear in court on two successive days, forcing last-minute postponements.

Threatened with contempt of court, the attorney has promised to be on hand Monday, when the trial is scheduled—again—to get under way.

Last night, Dr. Perry M. Lichtenstein, chief medical advisor to the district attorney's office, left for Toronto where, the office said, he would seek data concerning Lonergan's mother.

The prosecutor's office said she had been a patient several times in the Ontario mental hospital, Toronto. Brokerick has said he considers records in her case vital to the defense.

RUSSIA

4,000 enemy troops, captured many prisoners and quantaties of war material including 62 big guns, the announcement said.

The fall of Rogachev and Vitebsk—the former a rail town 15 miles north of Zhlobin, junction point on the Vitebsk-Gomel and Gomelgaminsk railways — was viewed here as indicating the Russians intend mounting a new offensive aimed at the White Russian capital of Minsk, less than 100 miles west of the nearest Russian lines on this front.

On the Baltic front, 220 miles north of the Vitebsk sector, Red army troops converging on Pskov were 20 miles north of captured Dno.

The Rusisans under Gens. Leonid A. Govorov and Markian M. Popov routed 30,000 Germans in the storming of Dno, the Russian bulletin added.

Moscow said 190 localities were captured in a three-pronged advance on Pskov from the north, northeast and east which was averaging better between 10 and 17 miles a day.

Berlin, acknowledging loss of Dno by "evacuation," also told of renewed fighting 90 miles inside old Poland, where it was declared the Germans had recaptured Rojische, 11 miles north of Lutsk and 46 miles from the 1941 German-Russian frontier. Moscow has never announced capture of Rojische.

Son of Billy Sunday Killed in Air Crash

By The Associated Press

WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 25—Mrs. William A. Sunday, widow of Evangelist Billy Sunday, was informed this morning that her son, Paul T. Sunday, had been killed in an air crash yesterday.

Mrs. Sunday came to Waycross for a week's visit, and spoke here last night at a mass meeting in celebration of National Brotherhood week.

Paul Sunday, 36-year-old test pilot, was killed with three other men when a Navy patrol bomber crashed against a mountainside near Palmdale, Calif.

TAX VETO

Barkley obtained unanimous consent to have read the exchange of letters between him and President Roosevelt.

The spectators didn't stay to hear the publicized correspondence, however, and they made so much noise leaving the reading clerk hardly could be heard.

Finally Barkley himself moved that the reading be dispensed with and the senate ordered the letters printed in the congressional record.

Thus ended another act in the capital's most stirring political drama in years.

Senator Barkley's dramatic resignation as senate Democratic leader yesterday only furnished visual proof of a seemingly inevitable break between the White House and Capitol Hill. The senate Democrats promptly demonstrated a new independence by unanimously reelecting the genial ruddy-faced Kentuckian to the position.

The house used votes, not words, to make plain its displeasure over the tax veto. Democrats joined Republicans in rolling up a 299 to 95 vote to override the veto yesterday. The senate followed suit today.

Helps Clear Atmosphere

Barkley helped clear the atmosphere by dispatching a letter of friendship to President Roosevelt last night, but even the generally conciliatory tone of this missive did not completely bridge the gaping breach between the executive and legislative branches of the government. Barkley made it clear that in the future there must be cooperation both ways.

Although expressing the deepest desire for continuation of the traditionaly cordial relations between the two, Barkley declared:

"In this great crisis of our nation's history we must all seek some common ground upon which we can meet and have confidence in one another. That applies to all branches of government. If we can not trust one another in this tragic period of the history of our nation and of the world, how can the people trust us,"

In renouncing his post as leader on Wednesday, Barkley declared congress would vote to override if it "has any self respect yet left."

The house could hardly wait to show how it stood, voting yesterday to override the veto 299 to 95, and checking the final move to the senate, expected to follow suit today.

Few Veto Votes Seen

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate finance committee foresaw no more than 12 to 18 votes against overriding.

It was evident Barkley was willing to go a long way to smooth out the turmoil which for 48 hours threatened to rip the Democratic party into dissident pieces at the beginning of a presidential campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt took the first step toward harmony Wednesday night when he urged Barkley to reconsider his intention to resign. Even if he went through with the resignation, Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped his colleagues would reelect him to the leadership unanimously.

A strangely formal pattern produced just that result yesterday. Barkley told a Democratic caucus he was determined to resign and his resignation was accepted. A few minutes later a delegation informed him he had been reelected unanimously. He accepted—and came out of the tangled situation with vastly increased prestige.

Barkley's letter to Mr. Roosevelt struck a keynote of Democratic reaction to the brisk interchange over the veto.

"I realie that in these terrific times you are burdened with a responsibility no American president has ever borne," he wrote.

"Throughout this perilous period my heart has gone out to you in sympathetic understanding, not only of your great responsibility, but your high purpose in meeting that responsibility.

"I want you to know that that faith in you endures in me today and will continue to endure because I have recognized in you a spokesman of the people, whose chief desire was to advance their welfare and their happiness."

Solidifies Public Sentiment

In another expression of his "confidence and affection" toward the President, Barkley expressed hope for continuation of "the personal and official relations which have been to me a source of infinite pride."

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) who presided over the caucus, commented that the action "cleared the air—it's a great thing."

Senator George saw the fast breaking series of events as tending to solidify public sentiment back of the war effort.

The tax bill which touched off the long-brewing trouble was estimated by congress to yield $2,315,200,000 over a full year's operation. Discounting a social security tax freeze, Mr. Roosevelt calculated it would bring the treasury less than $1,000,000,000. He had asked for $10,500,000,000.

FINNS CONSIDER RED PEACE TERMS

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 25—Reported Russian terms for an armistice with Finland, especially those regarding the disposition of German troops garrisoned in northern Finland, are understood here to have met with a mixed reception in Finnish circles.

The London correspondent of Dagens Nyheter listed today six Soviet armistice demands from unofficial but well-informed non-British sources who he said were optimistic about Finland's chances of quitting the war.

According to the dispatch, the Moscow conditions included:

1. The 1940 winter peace border.

2. German troops in northern Finland must be interned for the duration.

3. If Finland desires, the Red army will march into the country to assist in putting the Germans under control, but Finland's decision on this point will be voluntary.

4. If Finland and Russia agree on the Red army marching in, Russia will guarantee to retire after the military operation against the Germans is completed.

5. Moscow makes no demands for changes in the Finnish government.

6. Demobilization of the Finnish army and war damages are to be settled by later negotiations.

Against this optimistic approach was the statement of a trustworthy Finn just arrived in Sweden who said the biggest obstacles to peace are reported Russian demands—(not included in the London version)—that the Finnish army team up with the Russians in a drive to exterminate the seven German divisions now in Finland, and that Soviet troops garrison the principle Finnish cities for the duration.

Finland, the informant continued, understanding the Russians to feel there would be little point in an armistice if the Germans still controlled northern Finland with its valuable minerals, or if Nazi troops were permitted to slip out of the country unopposed for use elsewhere.

(A Finnish home radio broadcast quoted Vaino Tanner, Finnish minister of finance as saying "if terms (with Russia) are acceptable, we shall accept them immediately. If peace terms are impossible, we shall fight on with clenched teeth and await what the future holds in store.") infantry in each case—usually about 200 men. They were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy, it was announced.

Allied artillery got the range of a German tank concentration in the Carroceto area and forced it to disperse.

The passing of another day, the fifth, without major developments gave the Fifth army valuable time to strengthen its defenses against an expected third full-scale German offensive on the beachhead area.

The Germans made a number of nuisance infiltrations around allied outposts south of the Nazis' main rallying point at Carroceto, but a Fifth army spokesman said all these were under control.

British Eighth army patrols found German positions still firm.

Mediterranean air forces flew 950 sorties yesterday in operations ranging from a second heavy bomber attack in two days on an aircraft parts factory at Steyr, Austria, to routine patrols over the beachhead where only four German planes were observed during the day.

Thirty-six German planes were shot down on the Steyr raid Twenty-one allied planes were lost.

Other Fortresses attacked an oil refinery at Fiume with good results, a communique said.

Spitfires destroyed 13 enemy aircraft on a Yugoslav landing ground, and an Australian Kittybomber sank a 5,000-ton enemy merchantman off the Yugoslav coast.

Kinsey Troupe's First Leading Lady Dies

Mrs. Elizabeth Kinsey Miller, 72, first leading lady of the old Kinsey Comedy company, which toured Ohio as a tent theatrical organization, is dead at her home in Fostoria, according to an Associated Press dispatch. She was the mother of Madge Kinsey, head of the Madge Kinsey company, which has played in Marion for the last several seasons.

Mrs. Miller was well known to theater patrons here and in adjoining counties when her company played engagements during fair weeks at theaters in Marion, Mt. Gilead, Kenton and other cities. The company's engagements here were at the old Grand opera house, located on the site of the Elks' building.

Mrs. Miller came to Marion on several occasions when her daughter's company was playing an extended summer engagement on the old Aronhalt lot on North Prospect street a few years ago.

tacked twice during the night," it said.

"Objectives in northwest Germany also were bombed and a very extensive mine laying program was completed."

Report Areas of Attack

RAF crewmen returning to Italy from the night raid on the Steyr area said they attacked built up areas and railroads as well as the aircraft factory. They dropped their missles in the midst of flames started by the Americans yesterday and still gutting the factory. They also reported heavy flak and some night fighters.

Another announcement said of all the American and RAF planes that pounded northern France and Holland yesterday, only one Mosquito bomber failed to return.

The Ninth airforce Marauders went roaring back over Belgium and Holland this morning.

But radio silence ended for another operation in mid-Pacific, when Adm. Chester M. Nimitz disclosed that aircraft carriers last Sunday sent out planes which concentrated damaging blows on an unidentified atoll in the eastern Marshalls.

(The Japanese radio earlier had reported air attacks Sunday on the air base island of Taroa in Maloelap atoll.)

Admiral Nimitz said Sunday's raiders demolished a radio station, set fire to two hangars, hit stored ammunition, damaged barracks, docks, ground installations and a power station.

Berlin Sees Big Battle Ahead on Beachhead

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 25—Attonbladet's Berlin correspondent said today the lull in the fighting in Italy was regarded as the calm before the storm.

The allies on the Cassino front were said to have been reinforced by British, Indian and French Moroccan troops and there were signs a big attack was coming.

POLICEMAN CALLS SHOT

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 25—A policeman waiting for the start of a session of the New Britain police school casually remarked to a stranger outside the meeting room, "I suppose they'll have some windbag up from Washington to speak to us." "Probably will," agreed FBI Agent L. L. Meunier, the speaker of the evening.

men who will want to go on killing as some persons seem to believe. Instead, they are going to be amazed because the people back home haven't had a corresponding religious experience in this war. Let's turn to God and get ready to welcome those men back."

In analyzing the current trend, he said the nation now chalks up about 21 murders a day—a reflection on a God-fearing country. However, it's a little better than in the last gang era when the rate was a murder every 45 minutes. One discouraging factor is the increase in crimes among women, he declared. In the last gangster era, seven per cent of the crimes were charged against women; today that percentage is more than doubled. "I still hope the women of the nation will set high moral standards and help curb the coming era of crime," he said.

Changes Urged

Getting around to preparations that can be made to cope with the problems ahead, he called for changes in national, state and local government administration and said "the people themselves must have a change of feeling," explaining that law enforcement usually reflects just about what the public demands that it be.

Some forward strides already have been made, he asserted, declaring that law enforcement has graduated from "a job" to a profession since the last gang era. It is a profession which young men can devote their time, talents and training to with assurance that a great field is open to them, he asserted.

Government must keep pace with the change and can do much to help meet crime with scientific facilities. He spoke with pride of the accomplishments of a scientific crime laboratory set up in Toledo, and asserted the state has neglected its responsibilities in the handling of crime. The state should establish laboratories equal to any in the nation and make these available to every community and county, and serve as a clearing house and coordinating agency for these local enforcement agencies, he declared. He praised the work of the state highway patrol, but said the laws creating the patrol don't go far enough to provide the state assistance that should be given local enforcement officers.

Prison Problem

He said Ohio's 8,000 prison population is another big problem, and he called for additional facilities that will permit the segregation of first offenders from habitual criminals. Psychiatrists to distinguish between regular offenders and the "accidental" criminal are needed, and throughout the enforcement program there must be a greater tendency to use "heads instead of clubs" in dealing with the problem, he said.

Our nation needs good law enforcement more than anything else, unless it is good spiritual leaders, he declared. We need an awakened and alert citizenship to see that the law enforcement agencies are furnished with what they need to avert a repetition of the disgraceful era of the past, he concluded.

New Tax Measure Raises Total Annual U. S. Levy To 42 Billions

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—The nation's tax bill was increased by $2,350,000,000 to a new record total of over $42,000,000,000 annually today as the second wartime revenue act.

First general effects of the new legislation will be felt when higher postal rates become effective 30 days hence.

Then, on April 1, as higher excise taxes become effective, jumping the levy on liquor from $6 to $9 a gallon, or about 11 cents a drink on 100-proof spirits, and extending through a list of other commodities and services.

The legislation has no effect on individual income tax returns due March 15 on 1943 income.

The new law includes:

1. Increases in individual income taxes for 1944—to yield an additional $664,900,000. There is no general rate increase. The new revenue is derived through elimination of the earned income credit and removal of reductions for excise taxes paid out.

2. A boost in the corporation excess profits tax, from 90 per cent to 95—to yield $502,100,000 more.

3. Higher excises on "luxury" items—another $1,051,300,000.

Playboy and householder, socialite and factory hand are affected by the new excise load. The tax on cabaret charges jumps from 5 to 30 per cent. Cosmetics, furs, luggage and most jewelry will bear a 20 per cent sales tax. The rate on railroad tickets and local telephone service goes from 10 to 15 per cent. Beer and wine taxes go up along with liquor.

4. Increased postal rates—$96,900,000 more. The out-of-town letter rate remains at 3 cents. In-town letters, beginning 30 days hence, must carry 2-cent rather than 1-cent stamps. Air mail charges rise from 6 to 8 cents per ounce. Other increases affect C. O. D., registered and insured mail, and money order fees.

5. The social security payroll tax rate is frozen at 1 per cent for the rest of 1944, instead of rising automatically to 2 per cent each against employer and employe.

6. Numerous changes become effective in the war contracts renegotiation law, including an amendment which opens the way for contractors to appeal to the courts from renegotiations they consider unfair. Next Dec. 31 is set as the termination date for renegotiating war contracts for recovery of "excessive profits," although the President is given an option to set the date forward or backward six months if he deems it necessary.

7. Labor unions, farm cooperatives and other organizations are required to make annual financial statements to the treasury.

There is no increase in the corporation normal or surtax rate of 40 per cent.

The new law embodies myriad stipulations affecting business and industry, intended to deal with war profits, erase discriminations, close loopholes and encourage industrial production.

It exempts from taxation sums to service men and women as muster out pay.

It makes duly free the importation of lighter weight newsprint, during the war emergency.

PRESIDENT

was "incommunicado" as far as correspondents were concerned.

"It can hardly be said," Early commented, "that the correspondents deserve any great credit for going near the President. They were told by this office in confidence where he was and they knew, therefore, where to go. They were also told that if the President had any news to give out, it would be given out by this office, and not by the staff accompanying him."

Early added Crider might have said that the correspondents left Washington strictly on their own with the knowledge that the news would "not be there, but here."

The news has been given out here, Early said, apparently referring to the release of such matter as the President's telegram urging Senator Barkley of Kentucky to continue as Democratic leader, and an executive order setting up a retraining and reemployment administration.

Polish Cabinet Rejects Curzon Line Proposal

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 25—The Polish government-in-exile was reported today to have sent to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden a refusal to accept the Curzon line as a future Polish-Russian frontier and to have expressed displeasure at Prime Minister Churchill's support of the Soviet demands.

The semi-official Polish newspaper Dziennik Polski, which said yesterday the Curzon line was not acceptable, intimated the Soviet-Polish dispute had reached an impasse and that marked differences had arisen between the British and Polish governments over the boundary issue.

County School Teacher Problem Discussed

Possibilities of supplying teachers for vacancies occuring in the county school system were discussed when the county school board met last night. D. T. Mills, superintendent, said the last two years have been more difficult in relation to finding teachers to fill vacancies than at any other time.

Other business concerned ordering of diplomas for commencements in Marion county schools and planning for annual closing events, including a National Honor society banquet, an athletic banquet and the county music festival to be held soon.

Harding and Ashland To Decide N. C. O. Title Winner Tonight

The North-Central Ohio conference campaign of 1943 and 1944, chock full of excitement, keen rivalry, and brilliant individual basketballing, will take its final fling tonight with a round of three games, including the Marion Harding-Ashland joust for the championship at Ashland.

All N. C. O. teams will have engaged in 16 league frays after tonight's card is completed.

What fans, players, scribes, and others are terming the "game of games" will be staged in the Ashland auditorium, whose 1,400 seats are almost certain of being filled, over 200 of them by Marion fans. The Presidents and the Ashland Hilltoppers have each won eight games and lost one this year which throws them into a temporary tie for first place. Tonight's tilt will definitely determine the champ and the loser will get no better than second money.

In other games tonight, Galion will travel to Shelby and Mt. Vernon will visit the Bucyrus High school auditorium to meet the Bucyrus Redmen of Chuck Techanen These two games probably will decide what team will gain fourth place in the league. Galion, Shelby and Mt Vernon are deadlocked for the spot, each having copped two victories in nine starts Bucyrus has third place in cold storage with five wins and four setbacks.

The first time the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets coped with Bucyrus this year they executed the neat trick of a 43 to 40 upset. Such a feat tonight would assure the Mounties of at least a tie for fourth position The winner of the Galion-Shelby game would get the other 50 per cent share. In a first round game, Galion thumped Shelby, 42 to 26, but this time, the Whippets are expected to make it much closer in view of their great showing against Marion, which resulted in a loss by a mere two-point margin, 56 to 54

The Ashland-Harding set-to will begin at 8 o'clock, Marion time. No reserve game will be played. Ashland is slightly favored because of her formidable record since the first Harding-Hilltopper game, which the locals won 56 to 47. Another point in Ashland's behalf is the fact that the Toppers have the league's two leading scorers, Ted Jacobs with 205 points (a new N. C. O. record) and Guard Ruffy Harris with 151. Harris, in addition to making a lot of points, is invaluable as a top-flight playmaker. Highest Harding man in the league scoring lists is forward Fritz Guy, a junior who is in tenth place with 28 baskets and 23 free throws for 79 points. Center Chuck Fazio is twelfth with 70 markers on 30 baskets and 10 free tosses.

Ashland in 16 games has totaled 912 points to her opponents' 647. Harding has garnered 459 points against 398 for her foes

Probable starting lineups:

Harding		Ashland
Guy	F	Jacobs
Kilbourn	F	Scheaffer
Fazio	C	Geisinger
Young	G	Harris
Beach	G	Reese

Officials: McClintock and Winter.

Starting time: 8 p. m.

DOPESTERS PICK TRIO IN GOLF TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25—The Dopesters leaned to Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Byron Nelson and Pvt. Melvin "Chick" Harbert today as 13 professionals and 38 amateurs began play in the first round of the $5,000 New Orleans open golf tournament.

Harbert crowded into the tight little circle of favorites yesterday on the pro-amateur tourney, 'a tuneup for the big fest. He shot a four-under-par to lead the professionals.

Harbert, 23 pounds lighter since joining the Army, is on leave from the air forces training command at Lincoln, Neb.

Said Nelson today:

"In the past five major contests Jug has averaged 68.9 strokes per round, and I've averaged 69. He's a hard lad to catch and his performances over the winter circuit is one of the best ever."

Nelson said that during those five tourneys McSpaden banged the ball 1,309 times while he used a total of 1,312 strokes.

McSpaden carded a 70 yesterday to tie with Jimmy Hines for second best individual score. Nelson was one over par with a 73 but said his game was "just about what I expected."

Other standouts entered in the 72-hole medal play open today are Harry Cooper, Sammy Byrd, Craig Wood, Ed Dudley and Tony Penna

All tourney prizes are to be war bonds

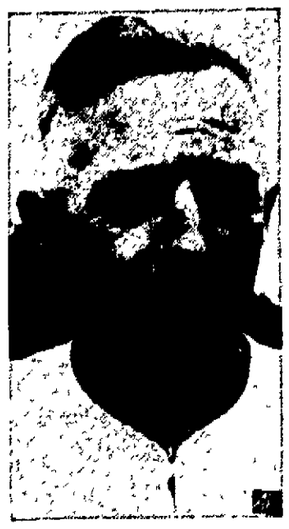
Joe Tinker Home, Sees Future of Baseball Bright



JOE TINKER

By The Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 25—Joe Tinker, 63-year-old diamond veteran whose exploits as a member of the famous Tinker-Evers-Chance double play combination thrilled fans four decades ago, thinks the game of baseball has been perfected to the point that it will require no major changes for years to come.

"They can't change baseball," the gray-haired former star said today as he relaxed at his Lakeside home where he is convalescing from influenza and complications.

"If they lengthened or cut down on the 90 feet between bases it would ruin the game," he observed.

"If the pitcher's box were moved back the pitcher would be throwing the ball all over the place, and if it were moved closer to the plate it would cut down on the hitting—and that's what the fans like."

Tinker, who was at his peak with the Chicago Cubs from 1902-12, is not apprehensive over the possibility that football, despite the growing popularity of the professional game, will ever displace baseball as the national pastime.

"The word baseball has become synonymous with good clean sport," he explained, "and a large share of the credit must go to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis—He saved baseball."

Lujack Born To Succeed

NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Johnny Lujack is a fellow to be reckoned with whether it be on a football field, the basketball court, or in Uncle Sam's Navy.

Meeting Johnny, you're impressed by his courteous, quiet manner. Talking to him, you know immediately why the Polish boy from Connellsville, Pa., is the most popular member of his high school class, and the pride of the sophomores at Notre Dame.

This Lujack is made to be great. He's eager and inteiligent, without being egotistical.

The Irish basketball players were at dinner in a hotel around the corner when "The Clubhouse" superintendent caught up with them.

"Hey, Lujie," shouted one of the group, "someone to see you!"

Up stepped a smart looking boy in a sailor's uniform.

"Yes, sir," said he. "I've been expecting you." (Walter Kennedy of Notre Dame had arranged the visit.)

Seeing as how Johnny left some good looking lamb chops on his plate, he was told to go ahead and finish them—which he did, in short order.

Before AP Features artist Mun' could smoke his cigaret, Lujack was up and with us.

Almost at the same time, a fellow in a Coast Guard uniform came into the room.

"Hi, Lu, how're ya doing?" shouted the Coast Guardsman, who turned out to be Eddie Spotts, Lujack's high school coach.

"You sure look funny in that pancake hat," exclaimed Johnny.

"No more than you do in yours," returned Spotts, with one of those friendly pokes in the shoulder. "Hey, get on your jacker. Jack Dempsey wants to meet you!"

"Gosh, does he?" asked Lujack. "That's swell, but I've got a date with these AP Features men."

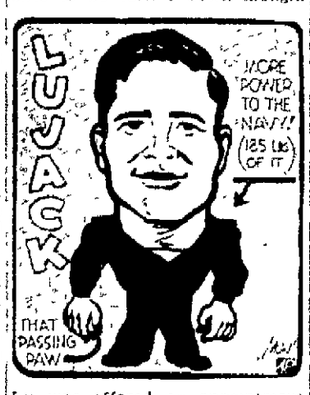
"That's okay," smiled Eddie. "I'll tell them all they want to know about you, and we'll be off."

Before the modest Notre Dame athlete could answer, his former athletic trainer was supplying a lot of info about Lujack.

"Johnny's bound to succeed. He's a born leader. Do you know he's the most popular student we ever had at Connellsville high school? He won three basketball letters, three in football, three in track.

"He'd probably be playing with the (New York) Giants today, too, if he wasn't so set on an education. He was one of the best semi-pro shortstops our town ever had.

"The Giants weren't the only ones to be turned down though.



Lu was offered an appointment to West Point. But, he made up his mind a long time ago to go to Notre Dame and when he does that, nothing can stop him.

"He was also president of his senior class, the most popular student the school ever had, especially with the girls—"

"Hey, wait a minute," shouted Lujack. "You've gone far enough. All I'm interested in right now is making good in this engineering course I'm taking for the Navy."

"Is that all, Johnny?" asked Mun'?

"Well, it is until after the war is over," replied Lujack. "Then I hope to finish my college studies, play a couple of years pro football, and settle down in business, maybe, the coaching business."

Johnny is a big booster for Angelo Bertelli, the Great Notre Dame passer and quarterback he succeeded

"Bertelli is a swell fellow in every way," says Johnny, "and a better passer than either Baugh or Luckman. He taught me a lot. We sure missed him in those last few games."

As for himself, Lujack would rather try to get past the line carrying the ball than attempt to pass it. He hopes to find a pro team that will want him for his ball carrying ability.

In case any National League outfit is interested in this comer, Notre Dame men are already calling Lujack "the greatest defensive back in the country." Not bad for a 180-pound kid, just turned 19, and with only one year of college football.

Southworth Happy As Martin Heads Back To St. Louis

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—The old Pepper Box of the Gas House gang is going back to the parks where he stole bases, hit, scrapped and won games for the St. Louis Cardinals for 11 years—and is Manager Billy Southworth glad!

"I surely am happy to have him back," Southworth exulted at his farm near Sunbury when he heard Pepper Martin would be back with the Cards this season.

"He is a dandy fellow. And he still can do things like throwing and running. He still has his old-time sparkle and speed. I think he will help the Cards a lot."

What if Pepper will be 40 years old next week?

"A lot of guys are going to be fooled if they think 'Pep' is creaking around on tired, doddering legs," Southworth said.

"Why, just last season 'Pep' was the fastest man on the Rochester (International League) club. He proved it in a race one day at Portsmouth."

Martin managed Rochester, a Cardinal farm, the past four seasons.

Southworth indicated he expected Pepper to be most useful as a pinch-hitter, especially against left-handers.

At Oklahoma City, Martin said he might not be quite as fast as in the days when he was stealing all bases in sight, but he still could beat a lot of fast men in a 50-yard—or even 60-yard dash.

"I can play at least 80 games this year—and that's a conservative estimate. I think I could go 100. But Billy Southworth's a great manager and whatever he says goes.

"I'll tell you one thing, I think I'll do as good as some of the 4-F's they got up there."

St. Mary To Close Regular Season with Game Tonight

A season of ups and downs, with the ups in a slight majority, will come to an end for the Irish cagers of Marion St. Mary when they go against the Crestline Railroaders for the second time this season on the Crestline hardwoods tonight.

Actually the Irish of Coach Lane McCrate will not conclude 1943-44 operations on the basketball front until they have been eliminated from the annual post-season Class B tournaments next month. Tonight's conflict completes the regular season schedule for the local parochials.

The preliminary contest between St. Mary and Crestline Junior Varsity teams will commence at 6:30 and the varsity game at 7:30, Crestline time, which is an hour ahead of Marion time. In other words, tonight's engagements will start at 7:30 and 8:30 respectively, Marion time.

An unusually large delegation of St. Mary adherents is expected to witness tonight's finale. Upwards of 100 tickets, proceeds from which will go into the Crestline servicemen's center fund, have been sold to Marionites, St. Mary officials said today.

L. L. Hill's Railroaders, for whom tonight's game will be the season wind-up clash, hold one 1943-44 victory over St. Mary, having conquered the Irish, 43 to 34, at Edison gym here in December. The Railmen had to steam with all the power they could muster to overcome an Irish lead of a few points at the end of the third quarter. Superior physical shape, plus a fast-functioning guard, Milt DeJean, were mainly responsible in the Crestline win.

At the time of its defeat of St. Mary, Crestline was undefeated and rated as one of the better small teams in the state. Since, however, the Railroaders have tumbled down quite a distance from their formerly lofty perch and now can't be labeled much more than even-Stephen against the Irish.

St Mary has posted 11 wins and seven losses in games thus far, tonight's game being the nineteenth on the ledger. The Irish tuned up for the always interesting Crestline bit with a 42 to 38 triumph over Marysville Tuesday night.

At the latest computation, Dan McGinnis, senior forward and captain, was top St. Mary scorer with 169 points in 18 games, an average below the 10 mark. Jim Lawler is second with 118 points. Steve Norris third with 106, and Johnny Gray fourth with 86 in 13 games. Gray has been the Irish spearhead in four of their last five games, hitting his season high against Richwood here a few weeks back with 14 points.

The St Mary JayVees will also be seeking revenge against Crestline. In December, the Junior Railroaders handed the parochial reserves a 28 to 22 beating.

Mt. Victory, McGuffey Enter Tourney Finals

KENTON, Feb. 25—Mt. Victory won from Ridgeway, 34 to 24, and McGuffey defeated Dola, 32 to 22, in the semi-finals of the Hardin county basketball tournament here last night. Two Galion Boys Reinstated

The names of Bill Stoner, whose suit against Football Coach Jim Lymper is pending in the Crawford county common pleas court in Bucyrus, and Earl Dye, have been placed back on the roster of the Galion High school basketball team by Head Coach Robert Sheffer.

Stoner and Dye, both seniors, were dropped from the cage squad after the first round North Central Ohio conference game between Galion and Marion Harding Jan. 14 for the "good of the squad." After an hour-long conference with Coach Sheffer last week they were given another chance and reported for practice Monday night for the first time in more than a month

Stoner started against Mt. Gilead Tuesday night at a guard position and scored one basket for two points in the two quarters that he played. Dye didn't break into the lineup Galion won the game, 46 to 43. Both boys probably will see action against Shelby in an N. C. O. game at Shelby tonight and will be eligible for participation in the District Class A tournament at Kenton next week, Coach Sheffer said.

Explains Action

In explaining his action in restoring Stoner and Dye to the squad, Sheffer cited the fact that the Galion team has played a losing schedule since their dismissal last month, and that their readdition to the lineup probably would give Galion much-needed strength. Galion has drawn a first round bye in the district tournament and is scheduled to meet the winner of the Celina-Crestline game in a second-round contest Coach Sheffer pointed out that with Stoner and Dye in the lineup, Galion's chances in the tourney would be enhanced, especially if they win their first game and meet a powerful Findlay outfit in a third round tilt

The Galion team has tended to ease up in their playing efforts since Stoner and Dye were dismissed, according to Coach Sheffer, who explains, "they simply didn't have enough competition after Stoner and Dye left."

Coach Sheffer goes on, "We went along mighty fine for about four weeks early in the season. But after Stoner and Dye were dismissed, we didn't have the flash we should have had. We could see that if you were at the Marion-Galion game. There still was dissension among the boys after Stoner and Dye left. They didn't seem to be any more to blame than the boys who already were on the squad."

Sues Football Coach

Stoner also was dismissed from the Galion football team last spring by Coach Jim Lymper. Through his father, Stoner sued Lymper on grounds of dropping him from the team for no valid reasons The suit for $25,000, unsettled and is still pending in Bucyrus courts

Coach Sheffer is in his tenth year as head Galion basketball coach. He has been coaching for years and among his outstanding achievements have been the leading of a Perrysburg team to the finals of the state Class A cage tourney in 1937, and the direction of a Tipp City team a few years back to the finals of the district event.

Davis Wins Wrestle Event from Nicko

Dandy Davis won from Jack Nickols in a two-hour three-fall wrestling match last night at the Armory. Davis first brought Nickols down in 20 minutes with a back breaker and body press Nickols reciprocated in 12 minutes with a crab hold. A body press applied by Davis brought Nickols down a second time in six minutes and clinched the match for Davis.

Paul Bozzell took a one-hour two-fall contest from Bob Castle, who replaced Whitey Wasberg, who was unable to attend. Bozzell took the first fall in 11 minutes with a crab hold and the second in two minutes with another crab hold.

In a 30-minute one-fall bout Antone Leone felled Paul Bozzell, who replaced Tex Riley, another absence last night. Leone took Bozzell in 12 minutes with a reverse neck breaker.

DUTY OF CHRISTIANS IN PEACE OUTLINED

Theme of Speaker in Epworth Church Series.

Christian Americans must feel their responsibility in helping win the peace, Dr. Roy Smith of Chicago said in an address Thursday night at Epworth Methodist church. Further elaborating on his statement, he said the world would be the responsibility of America as soon as hostilities cease.

Dr. Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate, widely read religious paper, has held pastorates in large Methodist churches in Los Angeles, Minneapolis and Chicago. His talk was the first in a series of four under the title of "Epworth Christian Education and Fellowship Hour" being sponsored by Epworth church. Other speakers will appear on successive Thursday nights.

Dr. Smith explained that there need be no peace treaty after the war because conditions for surrender have already been set up in pacts made by the four great allied powers. He said, "We can win the war because it is as simple as death, but we must win the peace because it is as complex as life itself."

In an outline of how we might be able to win the peace Dr. Smith set up six physical and political issues which must be met if all the nations of the world are to have any kind of settled life. Physical facts are: 1, overcoming hunger in occupied nations; 2, need for medical attention among conquered peoples, and 3, need for treatment of shock caused by bombing, especially among the children of Europe. Political facts are: 1, the fact that Russia will emerge from the conflict as the most powerful nation on earth with one opinion molded by Stalin; 2, the need for rehabilitation of China, and 3, the need for statesmanlike handling of Christian missions after the war.

Next Thursday night Dr. Rollin Walker of Delaware, professor emeritus at Ohio Wesleyan university will speak at a 6:15 dinner meeting in the church basement. All intending to be present at the dinner has been asked to contact the Epworth church office. Classes for instruction of workers in children's, youth and adult department will continue after the talk next Thursday. Young people and adults, whether they are active workers in the Sunday school or not, are invited to class sessions for discussions.

Kleimaier, secretary; Jay Vaughan, inner guard; Judge Dexter Hazen, tiler; Cecil Leavens, treasurer; Harry S. Elliott, John Peacock, V. M. Dutton, A. L. Thomasson and W. T. Buchanan, trustees.

Germans Renew London Raids To Help Home Spirit

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

British Prime Minister Churchill last night stalked through fresh ruins made by Hitler's new "mass-blitz" on London and held up his fingers in the famous "V" sign as he told the crowds with grim belligerency.

"We'll stick it out and give it."

This sudden renewal of the aerial offensive is a nasty affair, sure, I don't believe we need regard it as a phenomenon.

It is in part an answer to the unprecedented Anglo-American bombing of western Europe and the reich which daily and nightly is blasting away the foundations of Hitler's festung Europa. Indications are, however, that it is being conducted more for its moral effect on the world at large than for military reasons.

The fuehrer's primary object undoubtedly is to convince both his own people and foreign nations that the reich still possesses great striking power in the air. He aims at sustaining morale at home and at creating a bargaining point for use in case some unforeseen event should impel the allies to abandon their demand for unconditional surrender and consider peace negotiations.

Worst Since 1940-41

However, while the present German raids are the most severe since the terrible blitz of 1940-41, there's no sign that Hitler any longer can command sufficient air strength to bring London to its knees, or anything like it.

The Nazis are using much smaller bombing fleets than in the old days, because their luftwaffe is only a shadow of its former self, but they're employing more powerful bombs. The net result is that they are causing a lot of promiscuous destruction which has little military value, and are killing a good many unfortunate civilians. In short, from the military viewpoint the raids thus far had only a "nuisance value."

The peace angle is important from Hitler's angle. It long has been apparent that he is conducting a war of attribution in the hope of wearing the allies down to a point where they will compromise. Recently it had been disclosed, too, that his agents have been putting out peace feelers in many quarters.

These overtures, though, have contemplated a negotiated peace which would enable the Nazis to salvage much from the wreckage. Thus the sum total is that we must smash Hitler on the battlefield.

Marshal Stalin reminded the world again this week that the only way to crush the Nazis is to invade western Europe and get them between two vast military mill-stones. With this the allied high command not only agrees, but Premier Churchill a couple of days ago described in forceful terms the terrific air drive in preparation for the invasion from Britain.

Even as Stalin and Churchill were speaking, the Anglo-American bombing effort was swelling to a volume exceeding anything heretofore been, and Churchill promised that this would increase sharply to a pitch greater than has been conjured up in the imagination. Our primary objective at the moment is to render Hitler's air force impotent and thus ease the bloody routes up the strongly defended shores of the English Channel.

Major Farm Groups Oppose Draft Plan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Four major farm organizations declared in a joint statement today that new selective service rules would demoralize 1944 crop production as the senate agriculture committee began an investigation of the situation.

A joint statement calling the new directive "drastic" and "contrary to the national interest" was signed by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Ezra T. Benson, secretary of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives; Fred C. Brenckman, representative of the National Grange, and Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation.

Service Outlined in Talk To Kiwanis Club.

He also told experiences in helping transport supplies in North Africa after they had arrived from the United States.

After outlining general work of the Red Cross Mr. Smith related personal experiences during bombings and while working on a ship bringing German prisoners to this country for internment. Red Cross campaign procedure was explained to members of the club after Mr. Cook's talk.

Guests at the meeting were Rodney Fleming of Cuyahoga Falls, Paul Miles, H. J. Harrington and C. A. Robbins of Findlay, F. R. Stull of Cleveland, G. W. Alexander of Toledo, D. City Shops in Vain for Metal Baskets

City officials were having shopping troubles today, Safety-Service Director John V. Ruth is looking for 20 to 25 "metal bushel baskets" with handles that can be used by workmen in the city garbage department. The city hopes to buy used ones from private owners.

He said he contacted all stores in or near Marion that might have them but couldn't find any. In the meantime, the workers, who carry the baskets on their shoulders, are trying to work with baskets that have rusted through. The basket-type container is particularly needed because flat-bottom containers with sharp edges cut the shoulders of the workmen carrying them.

GRAIN PRICES EASE AS SESSION CLOSES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 — Grains eased toward the close today as local traders, who had bought early in the session, turned to the selling side. Wheat showed more strength than other grains and at one time was ahead for gains ranging to a cent in the May contract on buying attributed to mills. The late slump erased the advance.

Grain men noted a report of Modern Miller, a trade publication, which stated abandoned wheat acreage will be less than the 22 per cent forecast by the department of agriculture on Dec. 1. "Experts claim that the outlook is for a crop well above that suggested about three months ago," the publication stated.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

A Sequel to Pitfalls of Love.

THE Hugh Grantland of my memories, too generous for his own good where his friends, his servants, casual acquaintances and tradesmen he trusted were concerned but high-tempered and merciless to those who tried to cheat him, was not running true to form, I told myself.

For he was making no protest whatever to the outrageous charges of the country taxicab driver. Instead, he took a roll of bills from his wallet—I wondered when he had removed from it the oil skin cover which I was sure had protected it but a little time before—and handed the driver three bills.

Then he said incisively:

"Come for us tonight to take that six-five from Bridgehampton. What time will you be here?" tucked the bills into his pocket.

The driver smirked as he and his expression increased the suspicion and aversion with which I always had regarded him, although I acknowledged that I had no facts upon which to base my disapproval.

"Have to be here at five-thirty."

"Very well," Hugh Grantland said, and turning, took such long strides toward the door after he reached it but a second after Jim had guided the apparently feeble footsteps of "Mr. Howe" into the corridor.

"Thank you, Jim," he said. "I'll take over from now on. Is there a fire in that room? I remember there was a fireplace."

"There's a good fire," I interpolated. "Katie just built it up. Jim, will you bring in some wood, please?"

Jim Leaves

"Right away, Ma'am," Jim said, and as he left, I spoke hastily as the two figures turned toward my study door. "Mr. Howe's" clothing — I could see nothing of his muffled face except the two ends of a white towel going around his jaw and cheeks and tied at the top of his head, evidently the "horns" of Katie's imagination—was indeed dripping, as Hugh had said, and I knew that he must be suffering from exposure and needed immediate treatment.

"You will find everything in there you need," I said; "a big arm chair protected with a shower curtain, topped with a blanket, in which he can sit while you remove his clothing plenty of towels, and the hot water in the tap is ready. I was just washing dishes."

Hugh shot one surprised look at me, then nodded.

"I see," he said. "The war! You always were a good sport! And I am sure I'll find everything we need."

"Not everything," I told him smiling, and flushing involuntarily, to my annoyance at his praise. "Katie will be down in another minute or two with plenty of emergency clothing for you both. I'll send Jim in with it when he brings the wood. I don't know yet what you and Mr. Howe will wish to eat. Perhaps I can gauge the amount better if you'll tell me when you ate last."

A queer, elusive look flashed over his face.

"Not for hours. And we have no choice. As I remember, Katie's breakfasts were something to anticipate—and remember."

"This one won't be as good as usual, I'm afraid," I said, "for haste will be the first consideration. And now I'll hurry back to the kitchen."

I left the two figures plodding toward my study door, and went back to the kitchen, meeting both Jim, wheeling in from outdoors an iron, slanting-shelved contraption filled with logs, and Katie, coming from the back stairs, her arms filled with masculine clothing.

"Put the clothing on the settee in the side hall, Katie, and then come back here, Jim, let the wood stand in the hall while you pick up the clothing and take it all in to Major Grantland. Then ask him when he wants you to bring in the wood. Now, Katie, we have to fix two trays of breakfast in a hurry. They're terribly hungry."

Katie went into action with her accustomed verve.

"Den dey vant sometings to steeck to dere ribs," she declared, "und we got it. Here's an extra little pan of my breakfast biscuits, dere vas no room for set in oven, so I have set out ven Junior and Roderick vant snack. Now I light oven, steeck et in pretty soon, and it be all ready by time rest of breakfast ses ready. Now, eef you'll start coffee, and feex orange juice, and get started on trays, I'll slice some of our own ham, and fry wit soom of our own eggs. Dey'll have sometings dey don't get every day."

Ample Breakfasts

I silently agreed with her when the trays were ready, with orange juice, cured ham from our own smoke house, eggs which our hens had just laid, hashed brown potatoes, hot biscuits, honey, maple syrup, strawberry jam, and dishes of canned peaches—all from our own preserve closet. I put a small silver vase holding a spray of bittersweet and evergreen on each tray, and Katie and I bore them to the door of the study.

"I'll take that," Hugh Grantland said quickly, relieving me of the tray. "Come in."

He already had drawn up a table in front of the fire but before I could spread a cloth upon it, he said, with a smile quirking the corners of his mouth:

"I am sure you will like to meet your old friend, 'Mr. Howe.'"

I caught at Katie's tray just in time to keep her from dropping it. For she was staring in wide-eyed amazement at a face as familiar to her as to me, the well-remembered, ascetic, high-bred face of Hugh Grantland's Chinese friend, Lee Chow.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A Dietetic Experiment

I HAVE just concluded a dietetic experiment, undertaken for a group of students of nutrition, and since in some ways the results were surprising to me I venture to lay them before you.

One day I faithfully made a list of every morsel I had to eat. After breakfast I wrote down the items and their weight. Same with lunch and dinner—l'apres midi d'un dietician. I want to emphasize that I made no plans for what I should eat. I ate what was put before me or, in the case of lunch, what I chose. No forecordained plan was made for a balanced diet, or the inclusion of the vitamins or minerals or other protective food. It was as nearly as possible the same average kind of food I have on other days left to custom, appetite and chance.

Then I made a list of the food elements that are agreed upon as constituting a balanced diet, and the daily requirements by weight considered necessary by the best authorities.

Here they are:

The basic foods—Protein—50 to 100 grams. Carbohydrate and Fat—enough with protein to make up 1500 to 2500 calories.

Minerals—Salt (5 grams). Calcium (.45 gram). Phosphorus (.90 gram). Sulphur (1 gram). Iron (.006 gram). Magnesium, iodine, etc.—traces.

Vitamins—A (1500 units); B consisting of thiamine (1 to 2 milligrams) and riboflavin (.002 gram); C (.06gram); D (for adults 3 units); nicotine (.01 mg.); E, H, K, requirements not determined.

Some of the results surprised me. Especially the total calorie and protein intake. I had supposed I was eating about 2500 calories. I had believed the government estimated allowances of 1500 calories a day for a sedentary bloke like me and 3000 for a worker were too low.

Protein Intake

I have always supposed I ate at least 150 grams of protein a day, and have been very scornful of strict nutritionists who say 50 to 70 grams are enough. I recognize that a man can live on 50 grams of protein a day, but did not think that was a desirable maximum.

My own intake amounted to only 72 grams. And I guess I do not eat much more other days.

The other calculations did not surprise me so much, but may be a surprise to others who are artificially stuffing themselves with vitamins, iron, etc. My iron requirement is 6 milligrams a day. I took in twenty times that amount! I got twice my iron requirement in my egg at breakfast.

I got a little more calcium than I needed. My phosphorus intake was close to the minimum requirement, I was lower in that than anything.

As to vitamins, I am flooded with them. I took in 2890 of A, and I only need 1500; enough B thiamine and riboflavin; three times as much C as requirements demand, and sunshine will give me plenty of D.

And again I emphasize I did not plan the meals to get a large vitamin or mineral content. They just came naturally in the food that was set before me.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Feb. 26

A PARTICULARLY lively and progressive day is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. It is a time for summoning exceptional talents and skills for promoting cherished goals, especially if they have a decided mechanical or engineering objective and are in connection with group or public service of far reaching scope. Finances may be under expansive rule, and should embrace support from influential sources, with promotion and preferments as rewards for merit and sturdy work, even against certain deep opposition or dubious entanglements. Domestic, social and affectional affiliations should also thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of expansive, productive and fruitful effort, with the energies and faculties under high impetus for outstanding achievements, with recognition, promotion and probably public honors. Major aims and objectives are happily attained, with new openings for enduring returns and rewards. The personal social, domestic and love life contributs to general wellbeing and happiness. Slidester under-cover lures or intrigue.

A child born on this day should have much ability and ambition with many opportunities in life for attaining position, prestige and personal happiness.
